BIGGEST DAY so far, in the stock market, yesterday. 2,400,000 shares was the turnover. Wild buying in the morning, eager selling that pulled down prices in the afternoon.

As one buys somebody else sells, and that should be remembered. Many, apparently, are willing to let stocks go, and do not agree with the idea that there is to be no top to this market.

HOWEVER, BE careful how you sell short. Some of the bears were grunting sadly yesterday morning, trying to buy back what they had sold.

It is said that Durant, the automobile wizard, has gathered up several millions since the boom started.

The stock market interests even those that never buy, sell or gamble, for in its own wild way the stock market is prosperity's barometer.

It tells what capital, which means business intelligence, thinks of the immediate future.

LEONARD P. AYRES, of the Cleveland Trust Company, predicts for 1925 increasing, expanding business, and a prosperity boom "approaching the speed limit." He foresees low interest rates, much building and higher wages. All pleasant predictions.

BRITISH FINANCIERS are worried about our outlook, which is kind of them. They fear inflation in this country. But they need not worry, with Mr. Mellon in charge of national finance. He understands that job, won't permit inflation, and won't be scared into hurting business by making money tight.

THE BRITISH are cheered by one thought. They believe that they will get from the Germans in reparations through the Dawes plan thirty million pounds a year, just enough, each year, to supply what they, the British, must pay to the United States on account of war debts.

THE BRITISH ask the League of Nations to hold back on their world conference provided for in the famous proctocol. It is hoped that Uncle Sam will be persuaded, even at this late date, to come in and make himself generally useful.

TWO THINGS should make Mr. Coolidge send a friendly, firm "no" to that.

First, the size of his vote, which was a vote against any mixing up with European agreements.

Second, the sinking of the unfinished battleship Washington on which the people of this country have spent $35,000,000. If we were persuaded into such nonsense as that at the Washington conference, heaven knows what would be done to us, if they lure our half-baked statesmen to a conference on the other side of the water.

THE INDIANA Supreme Court upholds a law compelling a man to support his father and mother, if they are poor, and he is able to take care of them. Mr. Lundy allowed his father and mother to go to the poor house, offering as excuse the fact that he was buying an automobile on the instalment plan and needed all his money. The instalments will now have to wait.

IT IS HARD to believe that any man, not an idiot, should refuse to care for his father and mother. But, remember how close we are, in years, to the theory that people too old to care for themselves ought to be killed and eaten by younger people, including their own children. Among savages still living, the old expect to be killed when they become useless, and if you could find Esquimaux far removed from the influence of white men, you would see them putting an old father or mother in a little house made of ice blocks, with a small amount of food, then seal-

Army Mule Team Second Best in Pulling Contest

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 20.—The annual American Royal Livestock show in progress here saw the redoubtable army mule suffer a setback.

A team of dapple gray Percherons won the pulling contest for teams under 3,000 pounds, pulling 27,000 pounds, 27½ feet and developing a pulling strength of twenty-five horsepower. They weighed 2,720 pounds.

The mules, entered by the Quartermaster Corps, Fort Leavenworth, and weighing 2,2,880 pounds, were unable to pull the required 27 feet.

FIVE BRAVE HUB NUNS AID 300 GIRLS

The presence of mind and bravery of five nuns at the House of the Good Shepherd, No. 841 Huntington avenue, today made safe during a fire the lives of 300 girls who are quartered in the institution.

The mother superior insisted on helping the firemen and while groping about in the smoke-filled basement to reach the electric lights, she was partially overcome by smoke. She recovered after getting into the open air.

One of the Sisters went to the kitchen to start preparations for breakfast. She discovered a fire raging and the place filled with smoke.

MARCHED OVER BRIDGE.

She sounded the alarm and rushed for four other Sisters who were in the upper section of the building. The five then quietly marshalled the 300 girls and marched them quickly across a narrow overhead bridge to the chapel, where they were told to remain.

As the girls started from the burning building there were whimperings and in some cases hysterical sobs and cries. But the Sisters quickly allayed the fears of these as they marched through the smoke, and in a brief time all were safe in the chapel.

TWO ALARMS.

When the fire apparatus arrived the flames had gained considerable headway and a second alarm was sounded. The flames were under control when the second group of fire-fighters arrived. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Had the flames started an hour earlier there might have been great loss of life, for the girls were then soundly sleeping above the roaring furnace and escape would possibly have been cut off.

Supt. Crowley Warns Police of Presence of Chinese From New York

Chinese tong warfare has blazed forth in Boston.

Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley in a letter today to commanding officers of police divisions, gave first warnings that the nation-wide battle of the On Leong and Hep Sing tongs had reached Boston.

In the letter he says:

"Last Sunday night a Chinaman was found dead in the basement laundry No. 808 Tremont street, probably murdered by being shot twice.

"It has been called to my attention that a number of New York Chinese gunmen are in Boston for the purpose of killing certain Boston Chinamen.

"One night about four weeks ago several suspicious looking Chinamen made an attempt to enter the laundry of Frank Lem, No. 7 Belvidere street, bue were frightened away. Lem is not a member of any Chinese society, but was ordered by On Leong Tong not to open the laundry or harm would come to him.

FEAR FOR LIVES.

"About four weeks ago four Chinamen in an automobile tried to enter the rear of a Chinese restaurant at No. 200 Huntington avenue. Quong Chong, one of the proprietors, quit work, afraid to stay longre. Several attempts have been made upon his life.

"Last night four Chinamen in American clothes were seen acting suspiciously in the vicinity of a laundry at No. 170 Brighton avenue. Henry Chin, who works in this laundry, is afraid of being killed by members of the On Leong tong.

"Commanding officers of all divisions will instruct sergeants and route officers to pay special attention to all places of business occupied by Chinese and arrest all suspicious Chinamen."

REVOLVERS THE SAME.

Gin, the Tremont street victim, was killed by a bullet from an old-fashioned 38 calibre revolver identical with the weapon discarded by a youthful, white gunman who escaped after firing two shots at Charles

VICTIM OF HOPE DIAMOND 'CURSE'

CAPTAIN SMUTS IN HOSPITAL.

Surgeons at the City Hospital have located the bullet which the husband of May Yohe says he put there himself. His wife says the shooting was accidental while he was cleaning the weapon.

As soon as is advisable the surgeons will probe for the bullet. The police say the direction taken makes it seem unlikely that Smuts shot himself.

BOMBS HURLED AT $35,000,000 WARSHIP

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 20 (I.N.S.)—Bombing experiments against the hull of the unfinished super-dreadnought Washington began today at a point 50 miles east of Cape Charles under the direction of Rear Admiral Hughes and gunnery experts.

If at the end of the experiments in which scores of bombs from the air and great depth charges will test the armor plates of the giant warship, it still is afloat, the 14-inch guns of the battleship Texas will send her to the bottom in 50 fathoms of water. It may be Saturday before the huge vessel makes her final plunge.

The Washington is the last of the capital type ship to be scrapped or sunk under the Arms Agreement.

Known officially as the B B 47, the Washington, which left the Philadelphia Navy Yard last Saturday in tow of five powerful tugs, was due at the southern drill grounds Monday, but the gale which began Sunday kept her inside Delaware Breakwater. It was not until late yesterday that the hull, on which the government had already spent $35,000,000, reached the scene of her destruction.

A belief exists in some quarters that the Washington will withstand the bomb and gun attacks and be towed back to the navy yard and scrapped.

The super-construction and powerful armor of the huge hull, it is contended, will be more than a match for the assaults launched upon her.

S.S. WEST INSKIP NOT DISABLED, SKIPPER SAYS

L. J. Coughlan, Boston agent of the United States Shipping Board, owners of the steamship West Inskip, today started an investigation of the wireless S. O. S. calls picked up from that ship early Wednesday morning, and which Captain Turner of the vessel declares were never sent.

Early Wednesday morning the Charlestown Navy Yard and shore wireless stations along the Cape picked up the S. O. S. signals. Later they heard the Coast Guard cutter, Tampa, trying to get in communication with the West Inskip to determine her position. Later in the morning Rogers & Webb, operators of the vessel, announced they had

DENIES SHE EVER HAD WEAPON

Husband Was Cleaning Revolver When It Went Off, Her Explanation of Mystery

A veil of mystery which the police are unable to penetrate surrounds the shooting in a furnished room in the South End, of Captain John A. Smuts, husband of May Yohe, once famous actress and nephew of Jan Smuts, Premier of South Africa and noted general.

Smuts is in City Hospital, the latest victim of the curse of the celebrated Hope diamond, which was the property of his wife when she was Lady Francis Hope and the sinister influence of which seems to have pursued her since she owned it.

He insists that he shot himself and his wife tells the same story.

But the police point to the peculiar course taken by the bullet, which entered his left breast, and glanced along a rib, as evidence that Smuts could not have fired the shot.

WERE SUPREMELY HAPPY.

"I didn't shoot my husband," May Yohe told a reporter for the Boston American. "I didn't even touch the gun. Why, in the name of Heaven, should I shoot him? I have a great dread of firearms and I wouldn't touch a revolver for a thousand dollars.

"We never had a quarrel and we were supremely happy. The police have fully exonerated me. My husband and I are real pals and it is ridiculous to imagine that I would shoot him.

"I was sitting in the window, reading, while he was cleaning his revolver. Suddenly I heard a shot. I called out, 'My God! What's that?' Then I saw my husband had fallen and I helped him to the bed.

"I telephoned my cousin, Harry Rogers, in his office in the Colonial Building, and asked him to get a doctor. He tried to communicate

DEMPSEY LAUGHS AT $475,000 OFFER

Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight, just laughed when he was told that a White Plains, N. Y., syndicate had offered $475,000 for a bout between himself and Harry Wills. Jack was acting as sporting editor of the American when news of the offer arrived. "We get things like that every day," he said. "Jack Kearns, my manager, has a whole trunkful of them. They don't mean a thing. A lot of people like the publicity they get and hope they may be lucky enough to start something that will go through and make them a fortune."

'SHOT MYSELF BECAUSE I WAS UNKIND TO WIFE,' SAYS CAPT. SMUTS

with his family physician, but was not successful."

Another feature which tends to becloud the situation is the fact that Smuts, who said he was cleaning a revolver when it was accidentally discharged, penned a "suicide note."

This note, he told the police, was written after the shooting and while May Yohe was telephoning for a doctor. He wrote it, fearing lest he should die and the police should try to place the blame on his wife, he says.

FATE STRIKES TWICE.

Twice in less than a month the traditional curse of the Hope diamond has reached out and wrought misfortune to the former actress and her husband. On November 5 their little roadhouse at Marlowe, N. H., burned to the ground and all its furnishings were destroyed.

Then the couple established themselves in the room at No. 129 West Concord street, in the heart of the South End rooming district.

Mrs. Smuts told the police that she was at a loss to account for the suicide note, which read:

"I shot myself because I was unkind to my wife, May Yohe, who has been the best in the world to me."

At the hospital, Captain Smuts said he had shot himself.

"I shot myself," he said. "It was an accident. I was cleaning my revolver and it accidentally was discharged. That's all there is to it."

"Why did you write the suicide note?" he was asked.

"I wrote it because I was afraid of what the police might do if I should die. I knew they would try to fasten the blame on my wife and while telephoning for a doctor I hastily scribbled the note on a piece of paper which I took from her dresser."

Smuts frankly told the police that he would say that he shot himself, regardless of what evidence they might uncover.

"It makes no difference who shot me," he said. "If you make any trouble for my wife, I will maintain that I shot myself, no matter what you say. I am a game fellow."

May Yohe was married to Capt. Smuts about ten years ago. They made five trips around the world and finally came here, their fortunes spent.

The roadhouse venture in New Hampshire proved a failure. Not long before the building burned, Capt. and Mrs. Smuts ran foul of the prohibition laws and were fined and given suspended prison sentences.

BOSTON'S FIRST TOUCH BY ILL-FATED GEM

MAY YOHE, HER HOME AND THE "HOPE"

Modest quarters in West Concord Street, where Captain John A. Smuts, husband of May Yohe, was shot, how, the police have yet to learn. It is the latest in a long trail of mysteries laid to the big diamond.

Death and Disaster Have Followed Hope Gem for Centuries

THE sinister influence of the Hope diamond once the property of May Yohe has been felt through the ages since it first was brought to notice in 1668. Here are some of the tragedies which have befallen the owners:

Jean Baptiste Tavernier, who sold the gem to Louis XIV., torn to death by wild dogs.

The Marquise de Montespan, allowed by the French king to wear the jewel, quickly dethroned in his affections.

Fouquet, brilliant financier of France, who borrowed the gem to wear at a function, lost his mind.

Marie Antoinette given the jewel, loaned it to her intimate friend, the Princess de Lamballe. Both perished on the guillotine.

The diamond vanished then until 1830, when it reappeared in possession of an English dealer named Eliason, who received it from a man who died of consumption. It was brought to Wilhelm Fals, a Dutchman, for cutting a few years later and shortly after his shop was burglarized more than once. The robbers left him penniless.

Henry Thomas Hope, British banker, acquired the gem and misfortune descended upon him. His son died and the family fortunes and jewels passed into the hands of Francis Hope, his profligate grandson, who married May Yohe.

May Yohe eloped to the Orient with another man and shortly afterwards Lord Francis became bankrupt.

Simon Frankel, head of a firm of New York Jewellers, bought the jewel and became involved in financial difficulties.

The jewel was sold at a loss to Prince Ivan Kanitovski, who loaned it to a French actress. She was shot from a stage box by a jealous suitor the first night she wore it.

Colot, the broker who had sold the gem, committed suicide.

A Greek jeweler obtained possession of it and sold it to the Sultan. The jeweler within a month was killed while driving with his wife and two children.

The Sultan was dethroned and Zubayba, favorite of his harem, who wore the jewel, was found murdered.

A wealthy collector named Selim Habil bought the jewel and sold it to Cartier & Co., of New York. He was drowned at sea.

John R. McLean purchased the gem for his wife. She died a few months later.

Edward B. McLean, wealthy publisher and son of John R. McLean, acquired the gem and not long afterwards his little son was killed by an automobile.

Last Summer May Yohe and her husband opened a roadhouse in Marlowe, N. H. It was burned to the ground.

Today—The husband is in the City Hospital with a bullet in his abdomen. How it got there is a mystery. The wife says 'twas an accident, that he shot himself while cleaning the weapon.

TONG GUNMEN

Lew, a Chinese laundryman of No. 1475 Washington street today.

The bandit, described as about 19 years of age, entered Lew's place and held the revolver under the laundryman's nose. Walking to the cash drawer he took its contents—about $18. Then he fled with Lew in pursuit.

Near Canton Court the bandit turned and fired two shots at Lew. He then cast the weapon into the gutter and disappeared.

Discovery of scraps of paperbearing the name of a "Mackenzie" woman and the words "Massachusetts Geenral Hospital" and Tremont street were found in the shop of Lew.

TRAIN WRECK

rails, State and railroad police found.

The train carried twenty-five passengers, most of them girls.

Four girls and a brakeman were injured. They are:

Miss Dorothy Speight, North Main street, Springfield; Miss Margaret and Miss Bella Bowler, sisters, of Franklin street, Springfield, and Miss Bessie Healy of West Springfield, and John Day, brakeman, of Springfield. The girls were cut by glass and Daly's leg was broken.

The train left this city at 7:40 a. m. The engine and two of the three cars left the tracks and toppled over.

The combination baggage and passenger car contained $40,000 to be used in the payroll of the Ludlow Manufacturing Associates at Ludlow, which was being sent from a local bank. This money was in charge of the American Express Company and was in a safe.

The engine crew saved themselves by leaping from the cab before the engine toppled over. The train was moving at reduced speed and the engine and cars plowed only about 50 feet along the roadbed before rolling over.

HOPE DIAMOND'S CURSE NEVER IS LIFTED

Ever Since Possessing Gem for Brief Period, May Yohe Has Met Misfortune

The curse of the Hope diamond has again intruded into the life of May Yohe, who once was a famous actress and the favorite of the crowned heads of Europe.

Ever since the time she possessed the 68-karat stone when she was Lady Francis Hope, May Yohe has been the victim of ill luck and misfortune.

The latest piece of bad luck to which she has fallen heir is the shooting of her husband, Captain John A. Smuts, in the lodging house at No. 129 West Concord street.

May Yohe knows full well the baleful influence of the diamond, but she cannot escape from it. When E. B. McLean, wealthy Washington publisher, paid $300,000 for the stone she asserted that she "wouldn't give anyone a tin nickel for it."

The influence of the diamond is believed responsible for the fact that the actress, who was once the toast of Europe and America, who hobnobbed with royalty and knew luxuries without end, lives today in a South End lodging house and is placed in an embarrassing situation by the shooting of her husband.

CHALLENGED CURSE.

It was with complete knowledge of the traditional bad influence of the diamond that May Yohe became Lady Francis Hope. She challenged the curse, and lost.

As Lady Hope the actress was feted by every noble up to King Edward VII. and table talk in Mayfair had it that she addressed that royal person as "Eddie."

Then she met Putnam Bradlee Strong, son of Mayor Strong of New York. Fascinated by him, she dropped out of court life and it wasn't long before she had eloped to the Orient with him.

Strong disappeared from the life of May Yohe as abruptly as he had entered it, and again the influence of the diamond was blamed.

Later she met and married Captain Smuts, who is a nephew of the famous South African general. They came to this country and May Yohe auctioned off all her property, announcing her intention to go with her husband to a ranch in South Africa. Instead, however, they came to Boston.

RETURNS TO STAGE.

The auction had netted $20,000, but that did not last long and last Winter May Yohe decided to return to the stage. In Boston she was given a warm reception, but the new generation of theatregoers in New York didn't know her and didn't care for her. Again the sinister influence of the diamond prevailed and May Yohe was prevented from winning success in her own world, the world of make-believe.

With her husband she opened a small roadhouse, The Blue Diamond, at Marlowe, New Hampshire, but once more the influence of the notorious gem had its way. The couple fell afoul of the prohibition laws and were fined and given jail sentences which were suspended.

Not long afterwards incendiaries set fire to the little roadhouse and the building with all its furnishings was destroyed. Then Mr. and Mrs. Smuts came to Boston again and found sanctuary in the little flat in the South End.

$175,000 LOSS BY FIRE IN LOWELL

Blaze in the Robbins Building Threatens Business Section of the City

Lowell, Nov. 20.—New hose, which failed to stand a high pressure test, prevented firemen from quickly subduing a blaze which broke out in the Robbins Building, an old wooden structure, on Merrimack street today, caused property damage of $175,000 and threatened for a time to wipe out the centre of the city's business district.

When the flames, starting from a hot-air explosion on the third floor, spread rapidly to the second and first floors, firemen at the nozzles of hose lines discovered that the water was shut off. Investigation disclosed that the hose lines had burst behind them.

Repairs with clamps were made before the full effect of the high hydrant pressure could be directed against the roaring walls of flame.

By that time the building was a veritable furnace. Within an hour the roof and rear walls of the building collapsed. Several firemen had narrow escapes from serious injury. Firemen battled from 1:50 a. m. until 6 a. m. before the fire was under control.

G. C. Prince & Sons, stationers, occupied most of the space in the building. Their stock was quickly consumed.

The stocks of the Prince-Cotter jewelry store and Wardell's musical instrument establishment were destroyed.

The blaze penetrated through a brick wall to the Kresge store adjoining the Robbins building. Here considerable damage to stock and fixtures was caused by smoke and water.

Sparks from the burning wooden structure carried to the roofs of several business blocks on Middle street, separated from the fire line by an alley.

Prompt work by the hosemen prevented further damage beyond a few burned spots on rooftops.

The roof of the high school annex on John street, across from the Robbins building, was ignited by flying sparks. A crew of firemen mounted to the top of this building and succeeded in saving it.

MRS. ROUGHAN WROTE OF HOW YOUNG HUSBAND COMFORTED HER

FELT SHE WAS 'DRIFTING' FROM HER CHILDREN

In support of his contention that Frank J. Allen, youthful husband of the late Mrs. Mary Roughan, wealthy Charlestown widow, unduly influenced her, Sherman Whipple, appearing for her daughter, Mrs. Winifred R. Guarante of No. 165 Hammond street, Newton, read letters before Judge McCool in Norfolk Probate Court.

Mrs. Guarante and her brother, Robert Roughan of California, are attempting to break the will in which their mother left her estate of $170,000 to her husband, thirty-five years her junior.

Attorney Whipple read a letter written by Mrs. Allen to her son, dated December 11, 1921, announcing her remarriage. It said:

"You will doubtless be surprised to hear from me, especially since our lives seem to be drifting further and further apart. The reason for writing is that I have married again, and I wish to be the one to inform you of the fact rather than have it come to you second hand.

"If you ever stop to think of me you must realize how utterly alone I've been these last five years. The man I have married came into my life about that long ago. He is the nearest person to George (her dead son) I have ever known.

"His constant endeavor to cheer and help me has brought me the greatest comfort I have had since George passed on. He is deeply interested in Christian Science. Although considerably younger than I, he is actively engaged in the electrical industry where he is making good. He is thoroughly self supporting.

"To some my step may seem strange, but to others it will appear to be all right."

After saying she hoped the children would see the matter in the right light, which she said would make her very happy, Mrs. Allen wrote:

"Winifred has remarried, much against my wishes, shortly after her husband's death. She is the mother of a baby girl."

In another part of the letter she said:

"My decision was only reached after lengthy consultations with dear old Bob Nason." Mr. Whipple interrupted to state that the man mentioned was Robert Nason of the law firm of Nason & Proctor, who had been counsel for Mr. Roughan.

Attorney Whipple claimed Allen's connection with the electrical industry consisted of house to house canvassing.

He said that Maggy McGarvisk, the maid, had stated that when Mrs. Allen was ill her husband urged her to make a will to take care of him.

On another occasion, according to Whipple, before the marriage, Allen wrote to Mrs. Roughan, then in California, that Miss Marie Hanson, his fiancee, had thrown him over and asking her to return and marry him which she did.

New York, Nov. 20. — Charging gross mismanagement of Haitian funds by Americans operating under the American Occupation of the Haitian Republic, Dr. Pierre Hudicourt, who was Haitian delegate to the second peace conference, demanded withdrawal of the American administration from Haiti, in a statement issued through the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

HUB BUSINESS COUPLE ARE MARRIED

Caterer Besse and Beauty Parlor Owner on Honeymoon

Friends of Albert Besse, president of a Boston catering firm, and Miss Ninette Lambert, a Parisian girl and Boston hairdresser, learned for the first time of their marriage on November 8.

Besse, thirty-seven years old, was considered a confirmed bachelor and announcement of his wedding caused surprise to his friends.

It was his plan to keep the event secret until he and his bride returned from a honeymoon trip to the South and he nearly succeeded, for the couple are now on their way back to Boston. They will live at the Besse residence at No. 45 Atherton street, Jamaica Plain, Roxbury.

Mrs. Besse has conducted a hairdressing and beauty parlor in Boston for five years. She is twenty-four and lived with her mother at No. 133 Norfolk street, Dorchester. The marriage was performed at the French church on Isabella street by Rev. Dennis J. Sullivan of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury.

200 PICK WAY ACROSS HIGH R. R. TRESTLE

Passengers on B. & M. Train Are Marooned by Freight Wreck at Shawsheen

Driven out of warm coaches of a Boston-bound train at Shawsheen station in North Andover, herded across a narrow trestle bridge by members of the train crew and forced to wait an hour and a half in the biting cold without shelter of any sort, nearly 200 men and women arrived at the North Station early today.

They were suffering from hunger and exposure and they murmured malediction against the railroad and all its agents and representatives.

Several young women members of a theatrical troupe, a young bride still in her filmy wedding gown and other women huddled together in a group after crossing in the dark the dangerous trestle bridge a half mile south of the Shawsheen station.

Three cars of a freight train left the rails near the Shawsheen station about 10 last night, blocking traffic on both tracks of the main line of the Portland division.

ORDERED FROM CARS.

The conductor of the main line train which connected at South Lawrence with the 10.30 shuttle train out of the mill city main station, ordered all passengers from the cars at the Shawsheen station.

He explained that they would be taken aboard the theatre train from Boston on its arrival at the scene of the wreck. The plan was to transfer the passengers of the two trains.

Crossing the trestle bridge with the wide spaces between the ties women among the Boston-bound passengers hesitated at the prospect of slipping from the bridge in the darkness.

WOMEN FRIGHTENED.

Shrill screams of fright rose from the ranks of the young ladies of the theatrical troupe as they drew fur coats about them, raised their skirts high and gingerly stepped from one tie to another.

With the exercise of great patience on the part of the men passengers all were escorted across in safety.

Then came the long wait in the open with penetrating winds sending shivers up and down the spines of the huddling passengers. With the arrival of the north-bound train there was great confusion and another crossing of the trestle by the passengers from Boston.

Both groups of wrathful patrons were finally ensconced in steam-heated coaches for the resumption of their journey.

WRECKED SCHOONER'S SURVIVORS LANDED

New York, Nov. 20.—The Swedish American liner Kungsholm arrived here bringing among her passengers Captain Ernest J. Pearce and seven members of the crew of the Crowell & Thurlow four-masted schooner Alcaeus Hooper, which went down October 13 while making for Bermuda.

Foxy Grandpa Himself on Air Monday

ALL you children know lovable, old Foxy Grandpa.

Well, here's a jolly surprise for you.

You've read the old gentleman's tales in the Boston American, and now you are going to hear him talk to you and tell you his stories.

At half past five o'clock Monday the old gentleman with the tricky white whiskers will begin broadcasting his tales for the first time.

Every day after that you will be able to hear him tell his stories over the radio.

"Foxy" is going to talk from the Boston American through Station WNAC.

There will be a change, incidentally, in the hours of broadcasting the news. From Monday on, the latest developments in world affairs will be broadcast from the Boston American studios at 11:30 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

And the children's hour will be 530 o'clock.

WEST INSKIP NOT DISABLED, SKIPPER SAYS

received word the vessel had been repaired and was all right.

ASSAILS OPERATORS.

Today when the vessel reached Boston Captain Turner boisterously declared he had never sent the S.O.S. message, and the operator on the vessel denied sending it. Coughlan determined after that to probe deeply into the matter and find out if the messages were sent from some other ship or station. He called a meeting of various principals at 2 o'clock at his office. Captain Turner characterized all wireless operators as "liars."

When told that his owners, Rogers & Webb of State street, had announced a breakdown of machinery at sea on the vessel, Captain Turner replied:

"Wireless operators' stuff. There was no trouble of any kind."

From others aboard the freighter, which docked today, it was learned, however, that the engines did break down, and the West Inskip drifted all night, with giant seas breaking over her, until repairs were effected by the engine room crew.

CARGO OF TOYS.

The West Inskip, a Shipping Board steamer, sailed from Rotterdam for this port with a cargo of Christmas toys. On Monday she reported herself 200 miles out, and nothing further was heard until 12:18 yesterday morning, when the navy yard and Chatham stations picked up an SOS from her.

The signal was interrupted before the vessel's position was given, and the coast guard cutter Tampa was rushed under forced draught to the approximate spot which navy navigators worked out. Other vessels also went to the aid of the distressed steamer, but no trace of her was found until 8:30, when she wirelessed that repairs had been made and she was proceeding to Boston.

HOMES IN PERIL, DR. ELIOT DECLARES

Finds Many Do Not Regard Marriage as a "Most Important Event"

The supremacy of the home seems to be in dager because of the attitude of present day married couples according to President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, who today addressed the City Institute of the Women's Municipal League.

President Eliot declared that he has been asking questions lately regarding the subject of the effect of marriage and the effect of married parents having children. The answers, he said ,have started him to thinking that in the minds of many present day married couples marriage is not held as the most important event in their lives.

"One of these questions," he said, "was 'Is marriage the most important event in life?' From the men I received evasive answers. The women spoke doubtfully. They seemed to think it was not the most important event in life.

"Then I received answers from those who steered clear of marriage and who said that the birth of a child was the most important event in life.

"Are we getting the true idea of marriage?" declared Dr. Eliot. "Is marriage not the only way of having children today? These answers set me thinking."

Dr. Eliot declared that the world is indebted to the Jewish race for the first development of the home.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO JOIN XMAS FUND PARTIES

Thirteen Events of Many Kinds Are Planned for the Benefit of Movement

Thirteen parties of various kinds are now under way for the benefit of the Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American.

The public is cordially invited to attend all of these affairs and is assured of an excellent time at any one of them, for, like most benefit performances, unusual value will be given for the price of admission.

The first of these parties in aid of the Fund which is to feed thousands of needy families in Greater Boston will be given tonight at Odd Fellows Hall, Malden square, Malden, under the auspices of Mrs. Annie Moldoon, who has aided the Fund in many ways for several seasons.

The entertainment will be furnished by the Gertrude Dolan-De Petro Studios of Dancing, Roxbury.

Miss De Petro, who is one of the most active workers for the Fund, is doing her utmost to make the charity ball in Copley-Plaza Hotel, December 11, a success. She and Mme. Isabelle Lyman are conducting it and are arranging an unusually attractive entertainment program.

Irene Charron Gertrude Strobe

The other parties already arranged, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the Christmas Basket Fund, are as follows:

Monday evening, December 1, at the Music Box; Wednesday evening, December 3, at the Music Box; Friday evening, December 5, at [illegible] Municipal Building, at [illegible], Medford; also at Hamilton Hall, Central square, Cambridge; [illegible] morning, December [illegible], at [illegible] Theatre, Roxbury; [illegible] Thursday evening, December [illegible], at Copley Plaza Hotel main ballroom; Friday evening, December 12, [illegible] Hall, Meridian street, East Boston; Monday evening, December 15, at the Music Box, also at Huntington Chambers Hall, No. 30 Huntington avenue; Wednesday evening, December 17, at Hobbs' Auditorium, [illegible] Somerville; Friday evening, December 19, at Odd Fellows Hall, Malden square.

Contributions to the fund follow: [illegible]

RICH HARVARD MAN ARRESTED IN KILLING

Salem, Nov. 20.—John Whitefield, a Harvard student living at Claverly Hall, said to be a member of a wealthy New York family, was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter today.

Last Sunday night George [illegible] of Cambridge, while changing a tire on Newburyport turnpike, at Topsfield, was struck by a car operated by Whitefield.

The student took the injured man to the Salem Hospital and made known his identity. He was advised to report to the police, which he did, and was in turn told to tell the Danvers authorities.

At Danvers, Whitefield was sent to Topsfield, and, becoming tired, went home and reported the accident by mail to the State constabulary post at Rowley.

CANADIAN AUTHORITIES HOSTILE TO KLAN AGENT

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 20.—Canadian authorities were investigating today the family tree of the Ontario Ku Klux Klan to discover whether the organization was a child of the American order or a separate Canadian unit.

Further arrests were expected, following the capture of Charles Monteith of Niagara Falls, N. Y., who was arrested in Hamilton. Monteith admitted he is a Klan organizer but otherwise was uncommunicative.

Attorney-General Nickle announced there was no room in Ontario for the Klan and that he was determined to stamp it out.

WAKEFIELD STRIKERS VOTE TO REMAIN OUT

Efforts of a citizen's committee to settle the differences between the striking workers of the Evans Shoe Company, Wakefield, and the officials failed today when it was announced by the strikers that a ballot to determine whether or not they would go back on an open shop basis was unanimous in favor of continuing the strike.

The strike started September 30 last, when the officials announced they were going to make an "open shop" of their plant.

KAHN-WHELAN WEDDING UNITES RICH FAMILIES

New York, Nov. 20.—Two of the wealthiest families in the country were united by the marriage of Gilbert W. Kahn, son of Otto H. Kahn, of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., to Miss Anne E. Whelan of East Orange, N. J., daughter of Charles A. Whelan, president of the United Cigar Stores Company. Roger Wolff Kahn, brother of the groom and leader of a jazz orchestra, was an usher and also furnished the music for the reception in the Hotel Ambassador here.

COUNTESS FIGHTS TAXI DRIVER OVER FARE

New York, Nov. 20.—A woman giving the name of Countess Nell Jessamine Marie Desancton Deane, 43, who said she was the wife of Major G. N. Deane of the Eightieth South Staffordshire (British) regiment, on leave in this country, was booked at the Old Slip police station here after an argument with a taxi driver over his fare.

When her husband heard of her predicament he hurried to the Old Slip station to negotiate bail. He corroborated his wife's description of her rank and his military position.

100 Lucky Strikes TAX FREE

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture
Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

We invite every smoker in Boston to take advantage of this startling offer.

We've told you about Lucky Strike superiority.

Your friends have told you. Now know for yourself the value of the toasting process!

We make this proposition to win more friends.

The regular price of a tin of 100 Lucky Strikes is 75¢
You pay the dealer only 45¢
We pay the Government Tax of 30¢
Act quickly, as the dealer's allotment at this price is limited.
Get one tin [only one to a person] for home or for office.
The regular price will be in effect when the dealer's supply on this offer is sold.

Smoke these 100 Lucky Strikes. Then you'll know how the 45-minute toasting process adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

WE call particular attention to the statements made in the advertisement adjoining this editorial column.

This advertisement, the purpose of which is to win new friends for Lucky Strike cigarettes, incidentally emphasizes the matter of high taxes on cigarettes.

To those who are intimate with such matters there is, of course, no surprising statement made.

To the general public, though, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly fifty cents out of every dollar you spend for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last fiscal year it amounted to $[illegible]114,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,[illegible], or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

The immediately important point of the foregoing is the following: We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public generally appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins New Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it sensationally generous so as to attract attention.

We are not giving money away for the offer accomplishes its purposes: Lucky Strike "Wins New Friends." Our volume increases.

Super-quality

It is only by immense volume that we can produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly, extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

We urge you to participate in this offer—we want you to get acquainted with Lucky Strikes.

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

MRS. ARBUCKLE ASKS DIVORCE FROM 'FATTY'

Wife of Former Film Star Living in Paris Predicts Comeback by Comedian

By BASIL D. WOON.

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.)

Paris, Nov. 20. — Mrs. Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle will receive a Paris divorce early next month, but she still retains her faith in the innocence of the plump former star who, she says, will return to the movies under a big contract next year.

Mrs. Arbuckle, it is learned, has been living here in a flat on the outskirts of Paris. Her divorce proceedings have been conducted quietly, only a few of her closest friends knowing about it.

It is understood that "Fatty" Arbuckle is being backed by a big New York movie syndicate which is scheduled to stage his movie comeback early next Spring in one of his old slap-stick comedies.

Mrs. Arbuckle, who was formerly Minta Durfee, told friends here that Arbuckle has developed into a serious-minded man and that he is deeply interested in religion.

STAHLBERG TO DIRECT MUSIC FOR 'JANICE'

Deems Taylor Exceeds His Former Successes in Score for Marion Davies Film

Gustave Stahlberg, concert master for the late Victor Herbert, and now director of the Cosmopolitan Theatre Orchestra, New York, succeeding to that position after the death of Mr. Herbert, will direct the special augmented orchestra at the Majestic Theatre next Monday evening on the occasion of the Boston premier of Marion Davies in "Janice Meredith."

Deems Taylor, who composed the accompanying score of "Janice Meredith," had begun preparations to write a great opera based upon Paul Leicester Ford's famous novel of the American Revolution, with his music, which is now an important feature in the presentation of the film, as background.

The score of "Janice Meredith" represents, probably, Mr. Taylor's most important work. While he has gained wide recognition for his symphonic suite, "Through the Looking Glass," which has been featured for several seasons by leading symphony orchestras in the United States, and for his special music which he composed for such notable stage productions as "Liliom," "Fashion" and "Beggar on Horseback," he has come into new popularity with his ambitious score of "Janice Meredith." It has been acclaimed by music critics of New York as the most appropriate score ever written for a motion picture. It is said to combine beauty, melody and a high quality of musicianship. But, most of all, it conveys the spirit of those stirring days of the beginning of America.

CRACK FLYER GAINS 6 NEW STEEL CARS

Six new all-steel parlor cars have been added to the equipment of the crack Merchants Limited, Boston-New York, five-hour flyer, by the New Haven Road. MEAT HANDLERS IN LONDON ON STRIKE

London, Nov. 20.—A strike of meat handlers, starting in the London dock cold storage warehouses today spread rapidly, and by 11 o'clock all the storage warehouse handlers in London, numbering about one thousand, were out. The strike is over the question of priority in employment. It is feared the situation may become serious if the movement spreads to the other food workers, including those at the Covent Garden Market, who have exhibited restlessness since the last strike.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

Grandmother's Recipe of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Brings Back Color to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

SPAIN TRIES TO BLOCK EXPOSE BY IBANEZ

Expected That U. S. Will Be Asked to Suppress the Attack on King

London, Nov. 20 (I.N.S.)—American publishers, as well as British, will be restrained from publication of "Alphonso Unmasked," Blasco Ibanez's attack of the Spanish King, if the Spanish government has its way.

It seems probable today that the British government would heed Spain's request and stop publication of the book in England and it is possible the United States will be asked to take similar action.

The Spanish Secret Service has been feverishly active here since Ibanez announced in Paris that he was ready to promise distribution of 2,000,000 copies of the book, which he said would reveal King Alphonso as "a traitor to the allies during the World War; responsible for the debacle in Morocco, an associate of gambling house keepers and a shadow on the fair name of Spain." He said Alphonso was a true nephew of the man who betrayed Napoleon.

If other methods of distribution failed, the novelist said, he would drop copies of the book from airplanes so that all Spain might read them.

Ibanez has been an announced leader of revolutionary thought in Spain, since his declaration a month ago that the time was overdue for Spain to seek a republican form of government.

Boys and Candy Gone, but Dog Is Held as Hostage

Lawrence, Nov. 20.—Somewhere in Lawrence a small boy is mourning the loss of his pet dog, and doesn't dare admit it. The dog is "sitting pretty" as the guest of the police, as a sort of hostage.

Samuel Isenberg, who lives at No. 9 Prospect street, Methuen, was delivering candy in a store on Exchange street, in the Arlington district of Lawrence. He left the rear door of his truck open.

Coming out of the store he saw four small boys disappearing in the distance. Four boxes of candy were missing.

Isenberg gave chase but the boys got away. A small dog, who accompanied them, apparently saw no need for haste, and was captured.

LINDSEY HOLDS HIS POSITION BY 130 VOTES

Denver, Nov. 20.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver's nationally known juvenile judge, will retain the bench seat he has held for twenty-three years. This was determined when the count of mail votes was completed, giving Judge Lindsey a majority of 130 votes over Ray W. B. Graham.

CHICAGO MAN SLAIN IN GANGSTER OUTBREAK

Chicago, Nov. 20.—A new gang feud killing was disclosed today when the body of Genaro Paulla, who had been shot in the back twice and once in the back of the head, was found in the South Side with evidence that bullets had swept across the greater part of a block.

The mystery deepened when an unconscious man was found in an alley two blocks away. He apparently had a fracture of the skull.

"RABBIT" MARANVILLE'S AUTO RUNS DOWN BOY

Pittsburgh, Nov. 20.—Walter J. "Rabbit" Maranville, former Pittsburg Pirate who was recently traded to the Chicago Cubs, was the driver of an automobile which seriously injured Frank Smazda, aged five. The boy's skull was fractured.

Maranville surrendered at the District Police Station, where a charge of reckless driving was entered against him.

M'CULLY AT HEAD OF BRAZIL NAVAL MISSION

Washington, Nov. 20.—Appointment of Vice-Admiral Newton A. McCully, now commanding the Atlantic scouting fleet, to be head of the naval mission to Brazil, was announced today at the Navy Department. He will sail for his new post about December 25.

HOUSE OF DAVID HEAD ASKS FOR REHEARING

Chicago, Nov. 20.—A petition for a rehearing on an application for a writ of certiorari previously refused, has been forwarded to Washington for filing with the Supreme Court of the United States on behalf of Benjamin Purnell, head of the House of David, of Benton Harbor, Mich., James Hamilton Lewis, counsel for Purnell announced. The writ is sought in connection with the case brought by John W. Hansel and his wife, Margaret, against Benjamin Franklin Purnell and his wife, Mary.

BROTHER SUES SISTER'S ESTATE FOR $20,,000

Bridgeport, Ct., Nov. 20.—S. Jennings Gorman, Jr., of this city, and his father, S. Jennings Gorman of Fairfield and New York, filed suit in Superior Court for $20,000 claimed to be due the younger plaintiff from the estate of his sister, Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, who died last year at the Westchester - Biltmore Country Club, New York.

The defendants are Charles Webb, husband of the deceased, and the Bridgeport Trust Company, joint executors for Mrs. Webb's estate.

Weston Colony Draws on Its Own Smart Talent to Stage Another Play in December

By BETTY ALDEN

OUT Weston way, when they stage any sort of a show, they don't strive for anything very spectacular. They call upon their "home talent," and a jolly time is "had by all."

Of course, I'll admit that the smart little Weston colony—which really isn't so little at all—has an abundance of clever folk to draw upon as performers, which accounts, perhaps, for the success of the entertainments they put on.

On Friday evening, December 12, just such a show will take place at the Weston Town Hall, which will be repeated the following afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Gordon Curtis and "Joe" Seabury are to do a mind-reading stunt; dainty Mrs. Dudley Ranney will sing; Thayer Cumings and Charles L. Harding will play at the same time, each on a different piano; a quartet composed of L. Manlius Sargent, Charles Squibb, Herbert Jaques and Mr. Merrihew will all wail their "tunefulest" on the saxophone and are bound to make a hit with their act, while a rather unusual feature of the program will be the showing of a special moving picture of a humorous golf match between Mortimer Seabury and F. Robins Mitchell, also members of the Weston colony.

Perhaps the piece de resistance of this entertaining show will be the appearance of the Braggiotti sisters, Berthe and Francesca, of Brookline. It will be the first appearance of the season of these two charming and talented girls, and if they were the only performers the affair would be assured of success.

Miss "'Cesca," I believe, is to sing, further proof of the versatility of these sisters, who have so seriously taken up the art of Terpsichore.

MISS RACHEL SMITH

Miss Smith, who is seen here as she assisted at a recent charity function, will sing and dance in the chorus of "The Arcadians," which the Junior League is putting on at the Copley Theatre next month.

EACH year at about this time an exhibition and sale of objects of art is held at the North Bennet Street Industrial School.

Such a sale opens there today, continuing for two weeks. Opportunity is thus afforded to obtain distinctive Christmas gifts, as the various objects offered for sale have been picked up here and there in foreign countries.

Among the smart folk interested in the success of the sale are Mesdames Henry Lyman, Samuel Cabot, John Homans, Jr.; J. Montgomery Sears, as well as the Misses Ethel Forbes and Louisa Hunnewell.

MISS LORNA UNDERWOOD is marshalling together a band of the season's debbies to be ushers at the concert which members of the Farmington Society are arranging for December 3 at Symphony Hall.

The artist for the occasion will be no less a personage than Madame Louise Homer, a notable drawing card indeed.

The Farmington Society is composed of feminine members of society who spent their school days at Miss Porter's at Farmington, and a few of the smart folk sponsoring the concert include Mesdames T. Jefferson Coolidge, Joshua Crane, J. Converse Gray, George E. Kunhardt and Geoffrey Whitney.

The proceeds from the affair will help the Farmington Society carry on its community health work.

TODAY seems determined to make up the "deficit" of debutante festivities of tomorrow and Saturday.

Owing to the Crimson-Blue gridiron clash in the Bowl on Saturday, the week-end is quite devoid of frivolities for the "first-year" contingent, but today has enough on the cards to keep the buds on the qui vive.

Mrs. Arthur Wheelwright is a luncheon hostess for Miss Evelyn Windeler, debutante daughter of the G. Herbert Windelers; the Henry Morse Channings are presenting their daughter, Barbara, at a reception at the Chilton Club, and in the evening comes the first debutante dance of the season, the ball which Dr. and Mrs. Langdon Frothingham are giving at the Hotel Somerset to introduce their daughter, Miss Ellen Frothingham.

Society Notes

MRS. J. NICHOLAS BROWN and her son John, who resided in Boston during the latter's career at Harvard, are closing their Newport villa this week. They will spend the Winter at their home in Providence.

Today is the second and last day of the Florence Crittendon League's annual bazaar, being held at the Copley-Plaza. Mesdames F. Lothrop Ames, Walter C. Baylies, Andrew Carnegie, 2nd; George R. Fearing and Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., are a few of the prominent folk interested in the success of the bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kennedy Morse arrived from Boston the other day at the Hotel Lorraine in New York.

Announcement has been made by Rear-Admiral and Mrs. William Dugald MacDougall of Washington of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Zilla MacDougall, to Philip Mason Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Sears of Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Winthrop of Berkeley street and "Groton House," Hamilton, are among those closing their North Shore homes this week and returning to town.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Johnson are back in town after a long season at the "Log Cabin," as they call their Nahant Summer place.

Mr. and Mrs. Leverett S. Tuckerman and their family have returned to their town residence after the usual long stay at "Applefield," Ipswich.

NEWTON WOMAN EDITOR TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Miss Grace M. Burt, editor of the Newton Graphic for the past nineteen years, who died at her home, following a short illness, will be buried tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with funeral services from the home of her brother, Frank H. Burt, No. 94 Charlesbank road, Newton.

Born at Springfield fifty-two years ago, Miss Burt devoted herself to editorial work soon after her graduation from Mt. Holyoke College. She also served as director of the Alliance of Unitarian Women, president of the New England Women's Press Association, president of the Mount Holyoke Club of Boston and president of the Chip In Club of Newton.

LEWIS SCORNS POST IN COOLIDGE CABINET

El Paso, Nov. 20.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is not a candidate for secretary of labor in the cabinet of President Coolidge, he said here, in commenting upon a resolution before the American Federation of Labor convention indorsing him for that post.

63, FORGOTTEN IN CARS, STARVED TO DEATH

Tientsin, Nov. 20 (I.N.S.)—The bodies of sixty-three coolies were found in two box cars which had been standing on a siding here. The coolies apparently had been conscripted, thrown into the cars for shipment, forgotten and allowed to starve to death.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

HI-JACKERS RAID STEAMER OFF CAPE SABLE

Veronica Found Helpless by President Harding; Food for Two Days in the Galley

New York, Nov. 20.—The liner President Harding reported by radio to the U. S. Line here this afternoon that last evening she gave assistance to the British steamer Veronica, which had been left in a helpless condition 100 miles off Cape Sable after a raid by liquor pirates.

The President Harding went to the Veronica in response to a radio call which indicated that the steamer had been held up and plundered by hi-jackers.

The President Harding, which will reach quarantine late tonight from Hamburg, reported that she had found the crew of the schooner without knowledge of the vessel's position.

The lifeboats had been smashed, the compass was missing, the chronometer broken, and provisions for only two days were on board.

The Veronica had been at sea for six weeks and asked the liner to request her owner, Z. K. Warren of Halifax, to send her a tug.

FILM WORLD IS MOURNING FOR THOMAS INCE

There is mourning today among theatrical folk of both the stage and the screen because of the unexpected death of Thomas H. Ince, motion picture director of world-wide fame.

There is mourning also among millions of persons, in many countries, for Ince's name was familiar to all who go to theatres and who have enjoyed the wonderful creations of his genius in dozens of magnificent photo play spectacles.

Everywhere in America and abroad it is said that death has robbed the motion picture profession of one of its greatest artists.

Tomorrow Ince will be buried quietly in a Hollywood cemetery. The service will be held in the chapel of an undertaking establishment and will be private.

With the passing of Ince there is revealed the life story of the man who rose from an obscure place on the stage to a pinnacle of glory as a wizard of the silent drama.

The story of the life of Ince is inspiring—a typical story of a man who has won the heights by the force of combined ability and courage.

WROTE PLAYLETS.

He was born in Newport, R. I., forty-four years ago, the son of John E. and Emma B. J. Ince. His father was a comedian, so it was natural that, after his graduation from the public schools of Newport, Ince went to New York to find a stage career.

After weeks of discouraging, unsuccessful attempts to find an engagement he secured a place in the "Poet and Puppets" company in which Charles Frohman was the star. Demonstrating his talent for the drama, Ince afterward appeared in several stage successes, among them "Shore Acres," and "The Ninety-Nine." He was starred in "For Love's Sweet Sake." During his stage career Ince began the writing of vaudeville playlets and he appeared in and directed many vaudeville successes.

Sixteen years ago Thomas H. Ince began his career as a motion picture player and director. The circumstances surrounding his debut into that field were interesting but they did not forecast the tremendous role he was to take in the profession within a short time.

MOVIE JOBS CAME FAST.

Being without work in 1908 and with the prospects for an immediate engagement exceedingly dim, Ince sought employment in a photoplay studio. He went to the old Imp studio, where the motion picture industry was swiftly developing. Thomas Cochrane, the director, was impressed by Ince's appearance and hired him at a salary of $5 a day.

The first picture in which Ince appeared was a success and other photo play directors began watching him. Next the Biograph Company engaged Ince at $15 a day. That engagement marked the beginning of his swift climb to the top of the profession.

The Imp studio again sought Ince's services but he returned with the condition that he be given the first opportunity as director. Soon he was in complete charge of the studio and was giving ample proof of ingenuity, knowledge of acting and directing, resourcefulness and leadership.

Ince's promotion to the post of director came as motion picture making was rapidly being transferred from a crude industry to an art, and it is due to his influence and inspiration largely that many of the big spectacles of recent years have achieved such amazing artistic success.

MANY FAMOUS FILMS.

In all his experience as a director Ince was never satisfied with the facilities with which he had to do. His constant demand was for more and better materials with which to work; larger studios, better acting, better photography. He relentlessly fought for the things he visualized and it is because he had the persistance to insist on his wishes being fulfilled that the tremendous studio cities of the California foothills came into being.

Ince was a pioneer in the building of the modern studios at Hollywood and at other centres. His record of production includes such great photo plays as "The Battle of Gettysburg," "The Wrath of the Gods," "The Cup of Life," "The Coward," "Civilization," "Peggy," "The Narrow Trail," "Wolves of the Rail," "The Aryan," "Hell's Hinges," "Hail the Woman," "Her Reputation," "The Hottentot" and "Anna Christie."

Ince's home in Hollywood is one of the most beautiful estates in California. He married Elinor Priscilla Kershaw of St. Louis in 1907 and she and her three sons survive. He died at his home Tuesday after a sudden attack of heart trouble.

SULPHUR CLEARS SKIN RIGHT UP

Even Itching Eczema Is Helped Over Night by Mentho-Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm. It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

EXPERTS BACK, PRAISE DAWES PLAN RESULTS

New York, Nov. 20.—America's reparations experts, who have been in Europe to straighten out the post-war financial muddle, returned on the steamship Homeric today, convinced that the Dawes plan had restored confidence in Germany. The party included Owen D. Young, originator of the technical features of the plan, and Rufus Dawes, brother of the Vice-President-elect. As a result of the recent [illegible] loan, payments for the year terminating August 31, 1925, already are in the hands of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general of the reparations commission.

COOLIDGES SYMPATHIZE WITH MRS. HARDING

Marion, O., Nov. 20 (I.N.S.)—George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to former President Harding, today made public the text of a telegram addressed to Mrs. Harding from the White House showing the affectionate regard in which the former "first lady of the land" is held by the present occupants of the executive mansion. The message reads:

"Mrs. Coolidge and I send affectionate regards. You are constantly in our thoughts, and we anxiously await word of your continued improvement.

"Calvin Coolidge."

Still partly conscious, Mrs. Florence Kling Harding is showing decided symptoms of impending coma, a bulletin issued by her physician, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, said.

Her exhaustion and weakness has increased, the statement said.

WOMAN WINS HER FIGHT TO ENTER U. S.

Consul at Riga Is Ordered to Vise Passport of Citizen's Wife

Washington, Nov. 20.—The State Department has settled a controversy of some months' standing by ordering the American consul at Riga to vise the passport of Mrs. Anna Kipness Lerner so as to permit her entry into this country.

Mrs. Lerner was born in Russia and came to the United States at the age of five. Her father died before completing his naturalization.

She married an American, and when she went to Riga for a visit her return was objected to and temporarily blocked under the immigration laws.

During the last session of Congress Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, introduced a resolution designed to permit her to re-enter the country, but it never came to a vote.

Lieut. Moffatt Flies 600 Miles to Keep Mother's Promsie

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Lieutenant R. C. Moffatt, United States Army, formerly of Boston, flew 600 miles to make a speech on aviation his mother had promised he would make to members of a Brooklyn club organized by her.

Moffatt made the trip from his home field, Selfridge, at Mount Clemens, Mich., to Mitchel Field in the elapsed time of four hours and forty minutes.

BOOKIE DENIES BLACKMAIL OF PRINCE

Beautiful Wife, Involved With Indian Potentate, to Be Called Into Court

London, Nov. 20 (I.N.S.)—Court officials and attaches of the Indian Office continued today to blanket with all possible secrecy the identity of "Mr. A." known to be the son of a noble native ruler in India, who paid $750,000 to keep his name from being carried from the boudoir of Mrs. Charles Robinson into the British divorce courts.

Judge Darling, officiating at the trial of Great Britain's most amazing blackmail case, intimated today that ordinarily he would not permit the omission of the potentate's name, but "for reasons of state, that no scandal should be caused where the potentate lives," he was allowing the case to proceed with the victim known merely as "Mr. A."

BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

Charles Ernest Robinson, former bookmaker and husband of a beautiful woman nearly 15 years his junior, seeks recovery of $625,000 from the Midland Bank. The money, Robinson charges, was paid by the Indian Potentate as hush money but he received as his share only $125,000, which he was informed was what "Mr. A" paid.

Robinson took the stand today before a packed courtroom. He was cross-examined by Sir John Simon, one of England's foremost advocates, of counsel for the bank. Robinson testified his wife confessed to him in June, 1923, she had been guilty of misconduct with "Mr. A."

Prior to that, Robinson had no direct evidence, although Montague Noel Newton, accused of leadership of the blackmail band, had promised he could give Robinson all the evidence necessary for him to procure a divorce.

Robinson added that he had discussed the matter with William Cooper Hobbs, a solicitor's clerk, whom the band charges was one of the blackmailers. He said he wanted the money from "Mr. A." to give to his wife.

DENIES GUILT

"Do you think," demanded Sir John, "that $750,000 was worth the price of advertising your wife's dishonor?"

"I am entitled," Robinson retorted, "to exonerate myself of any complicity in a conspiracy or blackmail."

The advocate then attempted to wring from the witness admission that Robinson and Newton laid a trap for Mrs. Robinson when she went to Paris. Robinson repeatedly denied such was the case.

Sir John announced he intended to call Mrs. Robinson to the stand.

$17,000 FIRE SWEEPS MILTON MILLS, N. H.

Milton Mills, N. H., Nov. 20.—Damage estimated at $17,000 was caused by a fire that left several families homeless and threatened to sweep this town early today.

The Rochester Fire Department covered the eighteen miles in twenty minutes and saved the town by using the water supply of the Townsend Woolen Mills. There is no local fire department.

The fire started in Hiram Burrows' blacksmith shop, destroying it and spreading to a lumber pile nearby. It then leaped to a cottage owned by Arthur Flye of Arlington, Mass., and occupied by Fred Cruswell and family.

Another house occupied by George Hall and family was damaged, as was the barn of Luther D. Roberts and the house and barn of Robert Alexander.

HARLEY SEEKS TO BE RULED SANE

Will Ask Ohio Court to Set Aside Lunacy Finding of Two Years Ago

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Friends of Charles (Chic) Harley, former football star and all-round athlete of Ohio State University, are eagerly awaiting the outcome of his fight next Monday to have the lunacy charge placed against him two years ago set aside.

Harley will appear before Probate Judge Bostwick, who entered the lunacy order. He has received an affidavit made by the former athlete that he never was examined by physicians at a lunacy hearing, nor was he ever present at such a proceeding.

Harley was detained at the State Hospital for the Insane at Dayton from December 2 to December 24, 1922, he asserts.

Records produced by Dr. H. H. McCleland, superintendent of the State Hospital, contradict the affidavit, it is said. Harley was admitted to the institution June 13, 1922, and remained until October 26, the doctor says. He entered voluntarily for observation at that time the records show.

Counsel for Harley also will claim that as he is a resident of Illinois Ohio has no jurisdiction in the case.

RAIDERS TURN BACK LOS ANGELES WATER

Los Angeles, Nov. 20.—The waters of the Los Angeles Aqueduct, diverted into Owens Lake last Sunday by a raiding party of Owens Valley ranchers who seized and opened the Alabama waste gates, north of Lone Pine, Inyo County, were turned back into their course by the raiding party today, said a dispatch to the Times. The Los Angeles Clearing House Association had promised its co-operation in promoting a settlement of the water rights fund, providing the gates were closed.

Zurich, Switzerland, Nov. 20.—Two women arrested at a hotel here on suspicion of swindling have been identified, the police announce, as Mrs. Genevieve Paddleford, divorced wife of a California oil man, and her daughter, who have been involved in a number of police incidents in Vienna and Switzerland during the last two years.

They were registered as Miss Healy of London and Miss Clay of California, but carried passports under the name of MacKenney, mother and daughter.

MAN, 29, ELOPES WITH GIRL, 15; IS ARRESTED

The West Roxbury police arrested Giovanni Cemellaro, twenty-nine years old, of No. 2020 Centre street, West Roxbury, on a charge of being a suspicious person. His arrest followed word from the police of Portland, Me., that he had come to Boston Tuesday with a fifteen-year-old girl. The couple filed marriage intentions at City Hall, Boston.

The girl, whose name is said to be Josephine Fontamora, has been staying with an uncle of Cemellaro at No. 42 Grove street, East Boston.

BLOOD STAINS CLUE TO ROBBERY THAT FAILED

Worcester, Nov. 20.—Blood stains on merchandise in a department store, and a broken window in the rear of the store, caused the management to report to the police that the store had been broken into, although nothing had been taken. It is thought the intruders either sustained cuts in breaking the window or that blood was drawn during an argument inside the store. The fact that nothing was taken leads the police to believe that the robbers were frightened away.

HEIRESS TO BATTLE FOR HER CHILD

Harvard Sends Out S. O. S. for Missing Prince

NEIGHBORS SAY MAINE WOMAN IS VAMPIRE

SUSPECTED OF FOUR DEATHS

Mrs. Alphonse Cote, shown here with her youngest child, now is suspected of having instigated four murders. Her neighbors insist that she killed two husbands, an infant child and a pedler, who never was seen, they declare, after he visited the Cote farm. Mrs. Cote denies all the charges and with the exception of the finding of the body of her second husband, police digging the fields of her farm have uncovered no further evidence.

WOMAN IN FEAR AT RECITAL OF MURDER

Salem, Nov. 20.—On the verge of a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Mariam A. Risteen again appeared today before Judge George B. Sears in district court charged with George W. Plummer, Jr., with murdering her husband, Fred R. Risteen.

Mrs. Risteen almost fainted in court when she heard Beverly policemen testify regarding the finding of Risteen's body in Norwood Pond, North Beverly, on October 4.

A crowd of morbidly curious women were in the courtroom today, eager for a glimpse of the alleged murderers.

Incidentally the district court took precedence in importance over the United States District Court, when William H. McSweeney and Michael J. Reardon, counsel for Mrs. Risteen and Plummer, objected to the resumption of the trial.

HOLDS THEM TO CASE.

Reardon said he was scheduled to appear in a case in the United States District Court and McSweeney said he had a case in the Superior Court. Judge Sears told the attorneys the Risteen case was more important.

"Does your honor mean to infer that the United States Court is not of more importance than this court?" asked Reardon.

"I rule," answered Judge Sears, "that this case is of more importance. These defendants have been in jail awaiting trial and are entitled to as speedy a trial as possible. We will resume the hearing."

MRS. RISTEEN IN FEAR.

When witnesses related the story of her alleged confession regarding her part in the disposition of Risteen's body Mrs. Risteen seemed near collapse.

Plummer was pale and nervous when he appeared in court. He made an effort to avoid being photographed.

The first witness today was William J. Reagan, stenographer in the Salem office of the Department of Public Safety. Reagan recorded the confession which Mrs. Risteen is said to have made on Oct. 12.

Police Lieutenant Tobin testified that so far as he knew no effort had been made by the Beverly police department to check up on the story of Mrs. Risteen regarding her movements on the night of Sept. 21, when Risteen was killed.

SENT FOR PLUMMER.

Mrs. Risteen told State Detective Murray, before she was arrested, that her husband had been gone from home for two weeks. She said he came home drunk on the preceding Saturday and went out again.

When he returned, still drunk, Mrs. Risteen said she sent Plummer's little girl for her father, who roomed with a Mrs. Dumas on Railroad avenue.

Plummer cranked her car for her, she said, and with him she drove to Kenwood and Salem and back to Beverly, picking up Risteen on Rantoul street. It was 2 o'clock when they reached home and she put her husband to bed. He disappeared during the night.

DEATH INQUEST PUT OVER UNTIL TRIAL

Uxbridge, Nov. 20.—Judge F. N. Thayer reserved decision in the inquest in Second District Court into the death of Adam Korowski, Northbridge man, who was killed by an automobile in Northbridge about two months ago. Harlie Donor of No. 49 Wellington street, Worcester, the operator of the death car, was fined $25 for reckless driving in District Court about a week ago. He appealed. The finding of the inquest will be given when the case comes up in Superior Court.

HEIRESS TO BATTLE FOR HER BABY

"Candy Pedlar" Husband of Ruth Wallace Also to Fight for Child

Rochester, N. H., Nov. 20.—A court battle for possession of a child, still unborn, is looked for in the latest turn of events in the marital life of Alfred L. Quimby, candy "butcher," and his young heiress wife, Ruth Wallace Quimby.

This was indicated by the young bride in divorce papers filed in which she charges her husband with beating her with a dog leash, and with refusing to speak to her for ten days.

With the filing of the divorce suit Mrs. Quimby announced that she would start her fight for the child, and it is said that young Quimby is just as determined that he will have possession.

GETS COURT ORDER.

While there are some friends of the young couple here who say that there is still a possibility of a reconciliation between the couple, the impression given by the young wife is that the color is all gone from the romance and there can be no reconciliation.

Coincident with the filing of the divorce papers Mrs. Quimby obtained a court order restraining her husband from picketing the front of her mother's home, where she lives, and from following her about the town. The young couple separated some time ago, and the tongues of the town have been kept wagging constantly because the young husband has haunted the footsteps of his wife most of the time. He has now been ordered not to impose any restraint on the personal liberty of the young wife.

MARRIED IN APRIL.

The Quimbys were married last April. It was a wedding of wealth and practical poverty. He is the son of the East Rochester druggist. He was a pedlar of candy when he wed young Ruth Wallace. She is heiress to millions left by her father, Albert Wallace, big shoe manufacturer. At the time of the wedding there was much talk of the "love match," and the town thought that they would be happy. They went to live in a little two-flat over the bank.

Then came the sudden break. Mrs. Quimby went home to her mother. Quimby went to his folks. Mrs. Quimby would say nothing in the line of charges then, and tongues have been wagging on the possibilities ever since. Now the citizens are polishing up their shoes and dusting off their Sunday suits in preparation for a trip to the divorce court to hear the testimony when the trial comes up.

VANISHES ON WAY TO BOSTON

Member of Siamese Royal Household Last Reported Arriving at Seattle

Lost—somewhere in North America between Seattle and Boston, one Prince, en route to become a student at Harvard. Member of royal house of Siam. Name, Kunjura.

Accompanied, according to reports from Pacific Coast, by Professor F. B. Sayre, on leave from the Harvard Law School faculty, who plans to negotiate treaties with European nations.

About two weeks ago came the announcement that the royal party had arrived from the Orient, and that the Prince would proceed on to Cambridge.

But beyond that, Harvard is utterly in the dark about its prospective new student.

No rooms have been reserved for him, no provisions for his entrance made, according to authorities in the bursar's office and University Hall.

What department of the university the Prince plans to enter, too, is a thing of mystery.

At the office of the register of the college, the opinion is advanced that he will enroll as a student in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences; and Graduate School authorities say that he will probably register in the college, because educational facilities in Siam usually do not prepare students to take up graduate work here.

And at the Law School it was said that no notice of a visit from Professor Sayre has been received.

Where, oh where, is the Prince?

TRAFFIC POLICEMAN RUN DOWN BY AUTO

Traffic Policeman Timothy F. McCarthy of the Malden police was knocked down by an automobile while on duty at Pleasant and Middlesex streets, Malden.

He was given first aid by Dr. Mary E. Clark of No. 629 Main street, Malden, and taken to his home at No. 39 Clark street, Malden, with cuts and bruises of the right ankle and knee.

The automobile which struck down the policeman was driven by Albert E. Gleason of No. 62 Florence street, Springfield.

VETERAN WOMAN TELEGRAPHER DIES

Athol, Nov. 20.—Miss Zephreine Carter, eighty, veteran telegraph operator at the Boston & Maine railroad station here, was found dead in her apartment in the Healthy Home Block.

Miss Carter had just completed fifty-four years' service as a telegraph operator. She had been on duty at the Athol office since 1870.

Woman Jailed for "Sex Jury Rights" to Continue Her Battle

Pays Poll Tax Under Protest and Fights Case to the Superior Court

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 20.—It will never win the annual prize awarded by the Poetry Society of America, this poem which was written in the county jail by a woman imprisoned in defense of a principle, but it reflects a determination that will not acknowledge defeat.

To win this fight
I've tried and tried,
I've tried till I laughed
And tried till I cried.
But to keep on trying
Is no sin,
So I'll keep on trying
Until I win.

Mrs. Mary H. Dugan of Manchester, prominent Democratic leader clubwoman, is the author of the stanza. She spent four days in prison here because she believes that a State which refuses women the right to serve on juries has no constitutional business charging them a poll tax.

PAID AFTER ALL.

In addition to her four days in jail, her fight cost Mrs. Dugan the fees of four attorneys and then she had to pay the tax after all!

"I'm not ashamed of my term in jail—I'm proud of it," said Mrs. Dugan today. "It was far from pleasant, but I felt I was there for the sake of every woman in New Hampshire."

Mrs. Dugan went to jail on Wednesday, November 12, after Tax Collector Beaudet had offered her the choice of paying her 1923 poll tax or submitting to arrest.

At a hearing later, Paul Doyle, counsel for Mrs. Dugan maintained that the tax law was unconstitutional and that the warrant upon which Mrs. Dugan had been arrested was defective, but Judge [illegible] overruled his argument, and refused Mrs. Dugan bail.

The tax was paid under protest and Mrs. Dugan appealed to the Superior Court. The case will be tried at the January session.

New Hampshire is one of the few states which demand a poll tax of their new voters. The law passed in 1919, provides for an increase of the two-dollar tax to three and rules that with the ratification of the 19th amendment women should be liable for the poll tax.

BARRED FROM JURY.

Now here is where Mrs. Dugan's fight starts. The eighteenth amendment stipulates that "women shall have the same rights, privileges and immunities under the law as men, with respect to the exercise of suffrage, holding of office, freedom of contract, jury service, etc."

But New Hampshire doesn't want women on its juries and has retained a statute prohibiting them from serving, and Mrs. Dugan claims that the women of this tate have not been truly franchised and that the poll tax law, in so far as it applies to them, is unconstitutional.

While the arrest of Mrs. Dugan brought hundreds of Manchester women with checks to the tax collector's office, there are many others among her followers who have refused to pay their poll taxes and who say they will hold off until the case has been tried in January.

Mrs. Dugan promises that she will exert every effort to win her battle.

"I shall not drop the case," she said, "until I have proved that the poll tax law is unconstitutional."

"NO JURY DUTY - NO POLL TAX"

MRS. MARY H. DUGAN

"No Jury Duty, No Poll Tax," is the slogan of the Manchester, N. H., woman who was jailed for four days for nonpayment, then paid up and now is continuing her fight.

HURLS CLUB, SAVES HOTEL CASH REGISTER

A man about twenty-two years old, wearing a light topcoat and cap, walked into the lobby of the Hotel Royal, Sudbury and Court streets, today. Stepping to the cash register he was about to open it when the night clerk, Robert Halliday, sitting in a room opening out of the lobby, hurled a club at him. The youth produced a revolver, but without attempting to use it fled down Sudbury street. Halliday notified Patrolman Patrick J. O'Donnell.

FIVE PERISH IN PENNSYLVANIA FIRE

Plymouth, Pa., Nov. 20.—Five lives were lost in a fire which destroyed seven frame buildings in the business section today. The dead are Mrs. Martin Sherako; her niece, Emily Petroski, 11 years old, and three unidentified boarders in the Sherako home. Another boarder, Edward Alexton, was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

18 ANIMALS DIE IN CHARLTON FIRE

Charlton, Nov. 20.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large barn and three smaller outbuildings on the farm of Frank R. Hammond on the Spencer road. Sixteen cows and two horses perished in the flames. The damage is estimated at $15,000.

WOMAN IS HELD AS SLAYER

Mrs. Risteen Breaks Down as Alleged Confession Is Read in Court

Salem, Nov. 20.—Following argument by counsel that the Commonwealth had failed to show that murder had been committed, that the State had merely "brought a dead body into court" and that Medical Examiner George Stackney was unable to give the cause of death, Judge George B. Sears held Mrs. Marion A. Risteen and George W. Plummer, Jr., for the Grand Jury on the charge of murdering the woman's husband.

Risteen's body was found in a lonely section of North Beverly.

Plummer, according to the police, admitted having engaged in a hand-to-hand battle with Risteen over alleged attentions paid by Plummer to Mrs. Risteen.

DETECTIVE TESTIFIES.

Attorneys William H. McSweeney and M. J. Reardon argued a finding of probable cause.

State Detective William F. Murray testified he had checked up the story given by Mrs. Risteen to the police following her arrest, that on the night of the alleged murder she attended a motion picture show.

Dr. George Stackney, medical examiner, said further investigation was being made into the exact cause of Risteen's death.

Police at first believed a blow which caused a large lump behind one of his ears killed Risteen.

READS "CONFESSION."

Mrs. Risteen broke down and wept when her alleged confession to the State police was read.

William J. Reagan, stenographer, was called as a witness. He read from his notes the statements said to have been made by the accused woman.

He read statements in which she declared she had not seen her husband since she put him to bed drunk on Sunday morning, September 22.

Then followed the alleged confession in which she is said to have declared that Plummer came to her home at 1:30 on that Sunday morning and took her with him to a spot in the woods where she saw the body of her husband. Plummer's alleged confession was also read.

CRACKSMEN FOILED IN MEDFORD COAL OFFICE

Medford police are seeking a band of burglars who entered the offices of the North Somerville Coal Company, knocked the combination knob off the safe but who were frightened off before they could get to the money in the cash box.

The intruders gained entrance by jimmying a rear window shortly after the coal office closed, apparently believing that if seen, they would be mistaken for employes working overtime. A passerby saw the men and becoming suspicious, notified the police.

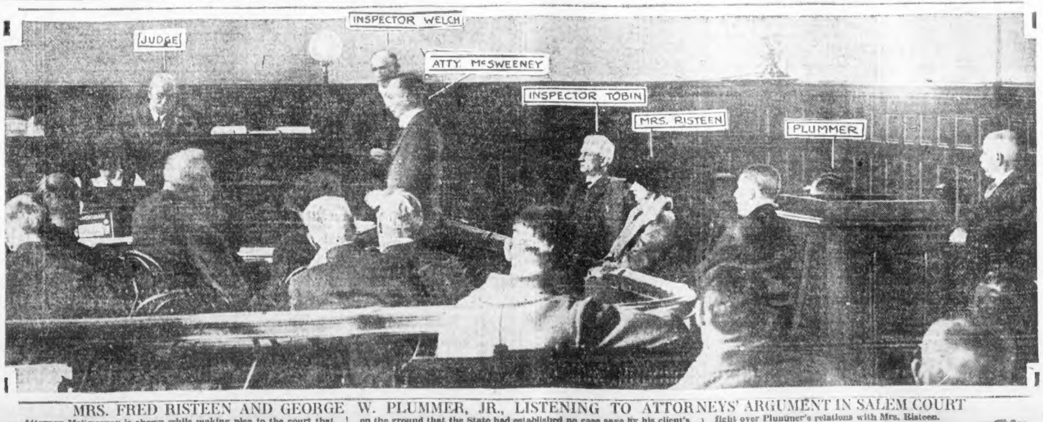
EGYPTIAN GOVERNMENT WARNED BY BRITAIN

London, Nov. 20 (I.N.S.).—Premier Stanley Baldwin and Lieutenant Colonel Amory conferred today regarding the Egyptian situation and the attempted assassination of Sir Lee Stack. They decided, it is understood, to dispatch a stern note to Egypt, charging the Egyptian government with raising the Sudan question and in this manner incurring indirect responsibility for the attack on Stack.

ST. CROIX RIVER AT ITS LOWEST LEVEL

Calais, Me., Nov. 20—Shortage of water in this section of north-eastern Maine and the portion of New Brunswick adjoining is becoming acute as a result of the protracted drought. The water in the St. Croix River was at the lowest ever recorded, the East Grand Lake dam is dry, Vanceboro dam is nearly empty, the West Grand Lake dam contains little water, while at Grand Falls the water is eight feet below the top of the dam.

LAWYERS FIGHT TO PREVENT INDICTMENTS IN BEVERLY KILLING



MRS. FRED RISTEEN AND GEORGE W. PLUMMER, JR., LISTENING TO ATTORNEYS' ARGUMENT IN SALEM COURT

Attorney McSweeney is shown while making plea to the court that his client, Plummer, should not be bound over for a grand jury hearing on the ground that the State had established no case save by his client's confession, which tended to show that Risteen had been killed in a fair fight over Plummer's relations with Mrs. Risteen.

By THE LISTENER

There is [illegible] to report [illegible]

[illegible] the name of the station, [illegible] Spanish steamer [illegible] United Fruit Company station [illegible] interference [illegible]

The concert by the Boston American Orchestra, under the direction of William F. Dodge, from WNAC, was the mainstay of the evening for me. The wonderful clarity of this orchestra, combined with the [illegible] reception which could be had, since it came from a local station, made it decidedly attractive to [illegible]. On WNAC's afternoon [illegible] Mr. [illegible] and Marion [illegible] [illegible] program [illegible] weeks or so these [illegible] have quite attached themselves to the local radio audience. [illegible] to say their fine work is appreciated.

Another talk on "Eggs" popped [illegible] from WEEI. This was given by [illegible] Anderson, and had to do with the preserving of eggs [illegible] being [illegible] the average American family through the medium of radio. If the average American housewife in the olden days were asked, "How eggs were pickled" she would probably answer, "I really couldn't say." Nowadays, our modern American wife [illegible] merely [illegible] back on one of WEEI's [illegible] "Egg Talks."

Many fans have written me letters about the talk given recently from WNAC on "How to Tune Your Set." Many of these letters have enclosed stamped envelopes and request answers. So many of these letters came in that we cannot [illegible] them all. Those that have not been answered will be carefully gone over and the ones which would be of most interest to the other fans will be answered in the columns of the paper. Watch for them!

Apropos of the interesting demonstration on Radio Movies to be given by Mr. C. Francis Jenkins at the Radio Show next month, it is also of interest to know that a composition on this very subject was given in the Quincy High School nearly three years ago by a young Italian, John Ghigli. At that time Ghigli, knowing nothing whatever of Jenkins' work, conceived the idea

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

EVERY large city has its share of Sunday drivers. These are the people who leave their automobiles in the garage all week and make all their mistakes on Sunday.

THEY like to drive on holidays because there are more things on the road to hit.

ONE guy drove fifteen miles yesterday afternoon and smashed twenty-two fenders. That wasn't enough so he went out again in the evening and dented fourteen more.

EXPERIENCED motorists who drive on Sunday should take the fenders off the car and put them inside.

THERE'S a fellow in Chicago who never parks his machine unless he builds a fence around it.

THERE are so many amateur drivers on the road over the week-end that even the motorcycle cops are afraid to come out.

EVERY Monday morning the newspapers give a complete list of people who tried to beat a railroad

THEY don't seem to realize that the engineer has had more experience in getting to the crossing first.

AT every crossing there is a "Stop, Look and Listen" sign, but the new driver usually stops on the railroad tracks, looks for the ambulance and his listening to the hospital.

HE honks his horn and expects the train to get out of the way.

SOME farmers make a good living walking along the tracks on Sunday afternoon with a basket, picking up flivvers.

IF a farmer needs a couple of new spark plugs for his Ford, all he has to do is to wait for the 3:38 express and he'll get all he wants.

IT only takes a railroad train five seconds to make a used car out of a brand new one.

ONE guy was driving across the tracks in a big sedan and before he knew it an engine and a coal car were inside the machine with him.

HE couldn't figure how the engine got inside his machine as he had the windows closed.

INSTEAD of paying attention to his driving he was hugging his girl with one hand and trying to figure out a cross-word puzzle with the other.

THEN just as he thought of the word he wanted, the train came along and knocked it out of his head.

IF a motorist wants to be absolutely safe on Sunday there's only one thing to do. Leave your machine in the garage and [illegible] driving on Tuesday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner.

GOLF is, to my mind, the very best thing that has come about in American [illegible].

Dr. Mahoney

Golf is primarily a sport, a game which normal people may and ought to play for the fun of it.

Golf furnishes all elements of recreation — [illegible] the joy of human companionship at its best.

Golf, however, is being largely perverted from its original purpose as a real sport for real people to a sort of therapeutic measure for old fools.

A man sticks to his dollar chasing and [illegible] for half a century or more. He has been riding to and from his office in an automobile until he has become practically legless and lungless. Some fine day he has one or two attacks of vertigo. That alarms him. He pulls himself together and says:

"By heck, I must get out of this for a while. I have it. I'll take up golf. There's Smith-Jones. He's [illegible] golf all his life, is five years older and looks ten years younger than I am this very day. I'll do it."

He does it. He was foolish to have worked along the way he did as long as he did. Then he proceeds to demonstrate that he is a fool for the second time when he tries suddenly to lay aside the sedentary habits of a lifetime and walk from five to six miles at a stretch up hill and down dale over the golf links; drive balls, hunt balls, swear at balls—or not swear at balls—to perspire like a negro on the cotton levy at New Orleans, then check the perspiration with a cold shower "just like any other young sport."

He was foolish when he didn't go to his doctor to find out that he had hard arteries, a defective heart or lame kidneys. So, one day he drops dead on the links.

I, personally, have known of three such cases. [illegible] had played all his life; the other men hadn't.

Golf should be prescribed prudently in the manner in which careful physicians prescribe any other form of exercise for their patients.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Am troubled with shortness of breath. Have a smothering sensation. Please tell me what to do.

F. W. N.

Newport, N. H.

I would advise you to go to a hospital and have an X-ray picture taken, particularly of your chest and back.

Please tell me where I can go to the Boston Dispensary and how much it would cost.

MRS. M. N.

New Bedford.

You can go to the Dispensary on Bennet St., Boston, any morning, except Sunday, at 9 a. m. There is, I think, only a nominal cost of 25 cents.

My boy had scarlet fever two years and his ear is still running. Can you advise how to stop the discharge?

J. M. J.

Charlestown.

My suggestion is that you take your boy to the Eye and Ear Infirmary and have him treated there.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Will families and little communities in all parts of the country shortly be able to set up small factories or other plants and run them either as their main business or during slack seasons?

Is the day for building enormous industrial plants in our largest and most crowded cities coming to an end?

If so, why and how?

Electric power—superpower—carried to every family's backyard, is the key to the answer.

General Guy E. Tripp, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company, who has been one of the foremost champions of weaving the whole country into a network of inter-connecting power lines, foreseen great changes affecting the life of the American people in our big cities and in other places. Under the coming order, slums should disappear, unmanageable traffic congestion in city streets should be relieved, country folks should be able to establish better opportunities for using spare time profitably, and all of us should be able to get a larger share of the conveniences and comforts of life, for it is now accepted as a fact that the more machinery and the more power a nation uses, the higher the wages it is possible to pay and the better become the living conditions of the people.

Says General Tripp:

"In the United States the amount of power which the workman has at his disposal is about 3¼ horsepower, which is about twice that of the English workman; and we find real wages in the United States (that is, wages expressed in the purchasing power of money), to be about twice that in England, and there is but little doubt that the living conditions of the workmen in this country are at least twice as good as those of the workmen in England. This same ratio also holds when we consider other countries, including China, where no mechanical power is used by the workmen and where wages are a mere pittance."

Read this forward-looking statement:

"When power can be obtained as cheaply at one place as at another, industries will be able to locate themselves at the most convenient points with reference to the supply of raw materials and favorable conditions for employees. It is entirely possible that the slums of our great cities will disappear and the present tendency toward the swarming of population into already crowded centres will be checked."

Progress is being made in linking up different States and different sections of the country with electric power lines. The war found this country handicapped by power shortage, simply because the total available supply was not inter-connected. Thus New York City had a surplus but northern New Jersey had a deficiency. This quickened the industry's endeavors. What is the outlook now? Says General Tripp:

"Superpower, as conceived and as being carried forward at the present time, contemplates the use of 220,000 volt trunk transmission lines stretching over wide areas and serving as great reservoirs into which may be 'poured' power generated from all available sources in order of their economy. It looks forward to a time when water powers and gigantic steam stations, located in the coal fields or on tidewater, will be developed; and not only that, but to a time when the by-products of industrial operations, such as the gases from blast furnaces, etc., will all be conserved by turning these waste products into electric power, for which there will always be a market in the main 'pipe-lines,' so to speak."

Thus is the electric industry seeking to solve that towering, many-sided modern problem, distribution. General Tripp told the Electrical Supply Jobbers Association at Cleveland this week that the cost of distributing phonographs is seven times the manufacturing cost, furniture five times, low-priced watches six-and-a-half times, and perishable farm products about five times the prices received by the producers, whereas the figure for electrical merchandise was only three-and-a-half times.

By making power available at any and every point of the continent, decentralization of industrial production will be possible and this, let us hope, will reduce the cost of distribution and, therefore, the cost of living.

* * *

A fascinating vision, is it not?

PART OF PUBLIC IS CERTAINLY 'IN MARKET'

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

"Is the public 'in the market' at this time?"

That is one of the questions the writer is most frequently asked.

The answer must be that a part of the public is certainly "in the market" right now; how large a part that is, as compared with what might be called normal, there is no way of knowing to a certainty.

I found a number of the board rooms of our most reputable stock and bond houses crowded when I made a tour of inspection one day this week.

One of the keenest stock market observers in Wall Street, handling affairs for a leading house, tells me that the first few days of the post-election rise in the Coolidge market achieved their advance on the buying of about one-tenth as many customers as participated in the last previous "after election" advance.

State Street hears reports to the effect that Secretary Mellon, early in 1925, will announce a long term refunding loan amounting to $2,000,000,000 at low coupon rates of interest. This loan would be floated to redeem the Liberty Third loan 4¼'s, maturing in 1928, it was said.

Such a step was urged recently by the Investment Bankers' Association. Interest was added to the reports because of a statement attributed to Under Secretary of the Treasury Winston in which he said extensive refunding operations were under consideration.

A dividend on the common stock of the St. Louis-San Francisco was discussed at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday.

Final action on the dividend, however, was deferred until the directors' meeting two weeks hence. The executive committee was in session an hour and at its close an informal statement was issued, as follows:

"The common dividend matter was discussed at today's meeting and final action was deferred until the board meeting two weeks hence."

It had been expected that the executive committee would recommend the payment of a dividend on the junior shares to directors. An annual rate of $5 was expected to be announced. The action of the executive committee leaves the matter of a dividend up to the directors.

NEW HAVEN AT HIGH FOR YEAR IN BIG MARKET

New Haven established its usual place of leadership among the speculative low-priced rails in Wall Street trading today by scoring a new high for the year, selling above 30 for its second move in this bull market.

Swiftly rising tide of stock prices, which was temporarily checked Wednesday by an enormous volume of profit-taking, gained increased momentum when a tremendous demand developed for the low-priced Southern and Western Railroad shares, a dozen of which attained new peak prices for the year on gains ranging from fractions to five points.

Norfolk & Southern and Kansas City Southern shot up over 4 each, others to break through their previous year's maximums were Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Western Pacific common and preferred, New York, Ontario & Western, Kansas City Southern, Rock Island, Katy common, Chicago Great Western, Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred, Gulf Mobile and Northern and Atchison preferred.

Speculative interest centred in low-priced railroad share which were bid up vigorously on an enormous volume of trading.

Chesapeake & Ohio climbed 3 1-2, Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred 3. Frisco common, Missouri Pacific common and preferred and Katy common each advanced 2 points or more. Sporadic profit-taking continued in the industrial list, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe breaking 6¾ points and then rallying, while American Can sold off 2 points.

U. S. Steel common duplicated the high of 116⅞ touched Wednesday and then sagged off about a point. Call money renewed at 2½ per cent. Sales in the first hour and a half totalled 869,000 shares.

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, the afternoon saw gains and losses in active issues very evenly distributed.

Eastern Steamship yielded a point, while New Haven was better than a point, mirroring the advance in that issue on the big board.

NEW FINANCING LULL TO HOLD FOR WHILE

Present lull in new financing is expected to continue over Thanksgiving. Bankers assert that few issues may be expected before the first of next month. It is thought possible, however, that the French loan may be offered before Thanksgiving. Railroad and public utility companies are expected to be in the market for funds.

BIG INCREASE IN EXPORTS OF COPPER

A remarkable expansion of copper exports has been in progress for many months. Shipments of the metal since January 1 furnish striking proof of this fact, and with the brighter outlook for European industry there is the possibility that the outward movement will attain still greater proportions in the near future.

The following figures show the shipments abroad for the first nine months of this year by countries compared with exports for the corresponding months last year, in pounds:

Country	1924	1923	Inc.
U Kingd.	178,776,640	119,784,000	58,992,640
Germany	148,326,000	115,973,760	32,352,320
France	139,829,760	120,498,560	19,331,200
Italy	79,618,560	40,960,640	38,657,920
Belgium	56,374,080	42,768,320	13,605,760
China&Jap	74,256,000	36,442,560	37,813,440
Holland	30,562,560	11,002,880	19,559,680
Canada	30,280,320	30,764,160	*483,840
Other coun	58,145,920	49,495,040	8,650,880
Total	796,169,920	567,689,920	228,480,000

*Decrease.

There was an increase of more than 40 per cent. in the exports for 1924 compared with those for 1923. The foreign shipments for twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1924, were 1,016,868,160 pounds. The largest exports for any calendar year in the history of the copper industry were 1,104,893,440 pounds in 1917. But the latter shipments were made during one of the years of the World War and consequently did not represent strictly industrial requirements. Exports for the first nine months of 1922 were 558,900,160 pounds.

Going back to the pre-war period, foreign demand for American copper in 1913 required shipments of 857,-[illegible] and the exports in 1914 were 806,912,960 pounds.

The copper export movement at present is greatly in excess of the pre-war level, and with the prospect of industrial recovery in Europe making substantial progress in the coming months a great European market for our copper seems assured.

AMERICAN BOSCH'S BUSINESS IS GAINING

Since election American Bosch Magneto Corp. has had substantial increases of releases from automobile manufacturers covering November and December. Some of these increases have been as much as 100 per cent. over previous specifications and the company will do close to $200,000 more business in this month than was scheduled the first of November.

MOTOR CAR OUTPUT SHOWS FALLING OFF

Motor vehicle production in October declined to 257,900 passenger cars from 260,171 in September, and 335,441 in October of last year, while the output of trucks increased to 31,433 compared with 30,805 the month before, and 30,153 in October, 1923.

MASS. GAS EARNINGS DISPLAY A DECREASE

Massachusetts Gas subsidiaries report for October net earnings available for common dividends of $304,671, a decrease of $36,920, or 10.81 per cent., compared with same month a year ago.

ing up the entrance to the house and leaving nature and starvation to take their course. At least the Indiana man let his father and mother go to the poor house. He did not kill them.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that the National Democratic party is to be "thoroughly reorganized." It needs it, what there is left of it. When you consider that Senator La Follette ran ahead of Mr. Davis, who ran third, in many of the Northern States, you realize that democracy needs some kind of strong medicine.

The people are tired of a Democratic party that is kept on ice by the financial interests, and trained in "safe" ways, in case an accident should bring it to power.

Many believe that Al Smith of New York, who carried his State by running a million ahead of his ticket, will demand and get the next Democratic nomination. If he does, it will be another kind of fight, and an interesting one.

THE REV. DR. SHEATSLEY, of Ohio, whose wife was found burned in the family furnace, now accepts the theory rejected by the police that the unfortunate woman crawled into the fire, shut the furnace door behind her, while the flames were raging and burned herself to ashes.

Her fourteen-year-old daughter says her mother was much moved by her husband's sermon about Heaven on the preceding Sunday, and had expressed a desire to go to Heaven and see it for herself, but to go by way of the furnace seemed a strange plan. And the situation is complicated by the fact that a bottle of poison is missing.

YOU WOULD have said that every possible explanation of mysterious death had been suggested already. But this Ohio case is new. A strange detail is the woman's sixteen-year-old son, seeing the body in the furnace but saying nothing for two hours, because he "preferred to have someone else discover it."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE warns Congress and the people that the forests must be protected and a way must be found "to bridge the fatal gap between cut and growth." This nation, after wasting with fire and axe, cutting down millions of magnificent trees to use the bark in tanning and leaving the tree trunks to rot, is nearing a timber famine.

THE SUPPLY of timber left amounts to 745 billion cubic feet of lumber. The nation uses 25 billion cubic feet every year, while the annual timber growth is only six billion cubic feet. It takes little arithmetic to show what is to happen.

If the forests are to be replaced, as they are used, the work will have to be done by national and State authority. Private individuals have neither money nor inclination to provide for the future.

Norwood's Secret For Success

(In seeking out from the business men of Norwood the secret of that town's uninterrupted and vigorous growth, the keynote was sounded by James M. Folan, who is one of Norwood's most active, aggressive and successful life-long citizens instrumental in the town's civic advancement.)

"Today, Norwood has a population of 15,000, an increase of 13,300 since it was set off from the town of Dedham by an act of the Legislature in 1872. While this growth and development has not been spasmodic, it has been most consistent, the rate for each decade being about the same percentage of increase.

"Energetic and progressive business men in the local retail establishments have built up a trading centre where 50,000 patrons of Norfolk County are served with courtesy and dispatch. Well satisfied customers have proven the greatest asset in the growth of Norwood.

"With the establishment of bus lines, furnishing free transportation to the outlying communities desirous of trading in Norwood, it will prove of inestimable value to all, resulting in larger and better assortments of stocks and finer displays, with cost reductions made possible. This to the advantage of the merchant and purchaser alike.

"The town within a month has expended $75,000 for the purchase of properties in the Centre for park and street purposes. An additional $75,000 will be expended for the purpose of installing water, sewer, gas, electricity, and the demolishing of old structures on the land purchased.

"Property owners surrounding this zone of improvement have already taken steps to prepare plans for the erection of mercantile buildings. Plans are being drawn for the erection of a new Town Hall and municipal building that will require the expenditure of approximately $500,000. With the erection of the new $500,000 Norwood High School, off Walpole street, together with the new grammar school building in the east end of the town, at a cost of approximately $75,000, it is readily seen that Norwood's claim of expansion is no myth.

"In addition to this building activity of the town, the proposed Bird & Son Manufacturing Plant, to cost $600,000, together with substantial enlargements to be made by the Norwood Press, there is a building activity ahead for Norwood that will keep things humming for 1925.

"The underlying secret of the constant and increasing growth of this town is deep, unshakable, immovable. It is part of the town itself. Civic pride and the aggressive spirit of its people have made Norwood!"

Thomas H. Ince

When a man of the ability and popularity of Thomas H. Ince is removed from any industry by the hand of death, there results a void which it is extremely difficult to fill. Mr. Ince passed away in the strength and vigor of accomplishment, when all the faculties were the keenest and success was being most notably achieved. He was known either personally or by reputation to practically the entire nation, as his career as actor and motion picture director endeared him to all America.

Thomas Harper Ince was born in Newport, R. I., November 16, 1880. His father was John E. Ince, a well-known comedian in his day, and young Thomas followed his sire in the actor's profession. He played for several years under the direction of Charles Frohman and then embarked in the line which brought him so much fame—that of director and producer of film productions, which he followed for fourteen years, to the day of his untimely death. He was one of the pioneer directors in Southern California, going there when but two or three studios were in operation. He remained to make a name for himself and his companions, and at his death was the head of his own organization and in the front rank of his profession. Among the many notable stars whom he guided to prominence were: Frank Keenan, Charles Ray, Dorothy Dalton and Bessie Barriscale.

Of Mr. Ince's ability in managing the filming of motion pictures little need be said. He had attained the foremost rank of the producers and his name was a household word. As a man he was greatly beloved by thousands of friends and acquaintances. His sterling qualities, his uniform courtesy and his unusual democracy in his association with all classes made him one of the most popular men in his position. The curtain has been rung down forever on the earthly activities of Thomas H. Ince, but his influence will long be manifest in the art he loved so well. His memory will remain as a sweet incense, permeating studio and theatre, industry and the home.

Wherever he was known—and that means throughout all America—he was a man who to know was to love and respect, and he will be missed by the whole nation.

The People Want a Coolidge Cabinet Now

President Coolidge has been triumphantly elected. President Harding, had he lived, would never have been re-elected, even if his party had ventured to nominate him. Those facts are significant. They will have consideration by President Coolidge and his advisors.

The chief handicap of President Harding was his Cabinet. The Cabinet was not the fault nor the choice of Harding. It was imposed upon him by the big interests whose representatives in conclave at Chicago in 1920 dictated the Harding nomination.

If President Harding had lived, he would have found no escape from participation in responsibility for the scandals centring about the inefficiency or crookedness of Fall, Daugherty, Denby and Forbes. One of them had resigned when disgrace overtook him. The public indignation which fell upon the other three and drove them from office would have fallen upon Harding and driven him from office, too.

But the people have, from the beginning, known that President Coolidge had nothing to do with the selection of the Harding Cabinet and could not be charged with responsibility for it. The same crowd of big interests that nominated Harding for President thought they had shelved Coolidge when they put him in the Vice-Presidency.

He therefore entered upon the Presidency without the slightest obligation to anyone. He owed nothing, he has had nothing to pay and he has paid nothing. He loyally stuck by Denby and Daugherty until the storm swept them away. Nothing of his own honor or prestige went with them.

The people in the late election expressed their confidence in Coolidge. Now that the President is free to choose, they expect a Coolidge Cabinet and a Coolidge administration. They do not expect a Harding Cabinet nor a Harding administration. The President has an unexampled mandate to do things the unbossed Coolidge way.

Well, Well!! and Well!!

What DO You Think of This?

That angelic peace gathering at Versailles must have given the peace dove some rough moments. All was NOT sweet harmony. Wickham Steed, once editor of Northcliffe's London Times, says in his memoirs, just published, that Clemenceau called Lloyd George a liar; Lloyd George seized Clemenceau by the collar, demanding an apology. Woodrow Wilson separated them and Clemenceau, refusing to apologize, challenged Lloyd George to a duel. Gray-haired men, one eighty years old, fighting. That would have been funny. But that wasn't "the half of it."

Clemenceau didn't even appreciate Woodrow Wilson as he might have done. When advised to discuss matters with President Wilson, Clemenceau, according to Steed, said:

> "How can I talk to a fellow who thinks himself the first man for two thousand years who has known anything about peace on earth? Wilson imagines he is a second Messiah. He believes he is sent to give peace to the world and that his preconceived notions are the only notions worth having.
> "I've done everything to gratify him. I receive him at the foot of the staircase as though he were King of England, but still he's not satisfied."

These foreigners are sadly lacking in reverence for our great Americans. The late Count Witte, Prime Minister of Russia, when he came to this country to negotiate peace with Japan, said of Theodore Roosevelt to this writer, at a dinner given by Melville Stone: "If I had a boy twelve years old and he didn't know more about world affairs than Theodore Roosevelt, I should feel that I had neglected my duties as a father."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

IN minted coin my debts I pay, bright silver, yellow gold, for all my much-esteemed array of follies manifold. I pay for trinkets that I wear, for bracelets and for rings, for little bars to clasp my hair and all such trifling things. For house and clothes, for food I eat, for flowers every day, for perfumes delicate and sweet, such debts as these I pay. No creditor can ever say that I his claims forget, for I've been honest all the way, and yet . . . . I am in debt! In debt for trust and kindliness, for timely faith and praise, in debt for smiles that eased the stress of some too-weary days. To one small pair of kindly hands I never shall forget, to one true heart that understands, I'm fathoms deep in debt! With coin I pay for many things, the baubles that I prize, my shining beads and finger rings, blue gems like Summer skies. For I would keep an honest score and owe no man, and yet . . . . however much I pay there's more for which I am in debt! I'm deep in debt for tenderness, for strong yet gentle hands, for love that guides me through life's stress, a heart that understands!

Left With Two Children

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a young woman who has been deserted by my husband, leaving me with two babies. I am a good typist and am asking if any of the kind readers has a typewriter to give me. I could find plenty of work to do at home if I had one and could care for my babies, too. It would be such a help. My health will not permit me to do heavy work. I would also be glad to get some warm underwear, size 38. These things would be appreciated so much.

MRS. M. B. J.

Coat Welcome

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you kindly thank M. R. D. of Newtonville for the lovely black coat she sent to me? It surely is appreciated. I would write her personally, but have no name.

MRS. NORA C.

Needs Bedding

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a young widow with a family to take care for and have managed without aid of any kind for two years, but now Winter is coming and I have practically no warm bedding for my two beds. I have had a great deal of sickness and can't do very heavy work, but would like an office position or some light work. I hope some of your kind readers can help me out.

MRS. MARGARET S.

For the Children

Helping Hand Editor:

Please thank the lady who called at my house and brought me quite a few things to make over for my children. I do not know her name, so I could not thank her.

MRS. M. D.

Stove Taken Away

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has been out of work so long that I have been unable to pay for a stove I had and so it was taken away. I have seven children, and it is terribly cold, as we have no bedclothes at all. I would be so thankful if some kind reader had any kind of a stove and bedclothes I could have. I have absolutely no fire for the children. I have seven children from twelve years down to seven months, and I am not well myself. I am heartbroken with worry.

MRS. R.

Requires Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a young man twenty-one years old and have been sick for three years with heart trouble. I wish you would do me a favor and ask your good readers if they have anything in the line of men's clothing, size 38, shirt 14. If I had some light clothes, I could get light work. Thanking you.

D. McD.

Invalid Seeks Quiet

Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if any of your readers know of a quiet, restful place in the country where a young lady who has been sick can spend a few weeks. She cannot afford to pay very much, as she has been ill for quite a while and is depending on relatives. She would appreciate it very much if you could help her.

SALVAGING WASTE CORNCOBS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SOME twenty million tons of corncobs, in the United States, are going to waste.

Frederick B. LaForge and Gerard Mains of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, and O. R. Sweeney, head of the Chemical Engineering Department of Iowa State College for Engineering Foundation, are responsible for the statement that science has found a way to avoid this waste.

The Foundation says that chemists and engineers appear to have opened a path to new industries based on waste products, which deals with the discovery of new processes for making the corncobs commercially available and reveals their value.

Already one county in Missouri raises large crops of a certain kind of Indian corn because its large cobs make good tobacco pipes. Some cobs are burned as fuel on farms.

Maple sugar flavor is made by boiling cobs with water. Meat smoked with cobs has a flavor said to be better than that from hickory. And there are many other uses.

The Iowa State College is now investigating a product from cobs of furfural, oxalic and acetic acids, wood alcohol, charcoal, pitch, tar oils, cob flour, incense, punk, and fermentation products.

A special use is proposed in the manufacture of briquettes from the fine sizes of anthracite. This utilization of waste cobs would enhance the value of waste coal. Beside this there is a promising field in the manufacture of resins similar to Bakelite, suitable for printing plates and various other molded articles.

The phenol furfural resins extracted from the cobs are infusable and insoluble. They have high insulating qualities, great strength and great resistance to water and chemicals. They have a large field in radio equipment. Phonograph records may be made from them.

As they have great toughness and resistance there are numerous uses for fibre impregnated with these resins.

Advance in business is largely confined to the utilization of waste products and if some way can be devised to use the waste corncobs it would be of immense value to the country.

BRAIN WORKINGS OF A GREAT WRITER

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

IN October died Anatole France, born Anatole Thibault, who, having taken the name of his country, had come to be regarded by his countrymen not only as the foremost representative of French literature in our day, but, upon the while, as the greatest national figure in their contemporary life.

Among us no writer, merely as such, ever obtained a general influence and authority corresponding to what the French often accord to their leading authors. In granting this exalted rank to a standard bearer of literature, they do not so much demand that the recipient shall be remarkable for intellectual power and originality, as that he shall write the French language with extraordinary beauty, grace, accuracy and effectiveness.

This was the case of Anatole France. He was not a great and original thinker; he gave to his country and to the world no great new ideas; but he was a clear; delightful writer, master of a well-rounded, perfected style, which his admirers regard as the model of the very best. For them, Anatole France's writings are as "wine of the comet," and of a very unusual comet, too!

They also give him credit for having been a guardian of their language by the splendid example which he furnished of its inherent powers, and by the resistance which he furnished against undesirable and weakening innovations. That is a great service for any man to have rendered to his mother tongue, and one deserving of deathless commemoration. But it is probable that his countrymen somewhat exaggerate the influence of this great writer upon the thought of his time.

In view, however, of the immense reputation that he had, and of the ever-growing belief that somehow the secret of the mind may be read in the brain, it is not surprising that Anatole France's brain was removed for expert examination.

"If it had occurred to him that it would be of use to science," says one of his admirers, "he would himself have given the order to have his brain submitted to the inspection of the doctors."

And, indeed, what could be more interesting and informative than a careful study of an "organ of the mind" that has been used by a man of superior or commanding powers." Science seems to assure us that there we should find certain certain indications of at least the physical sources of such powers. It is like probing for the secret of a mysterious engine, which, through some snap in the machinery, has broken down.

Unfortunately, as far as yet appears, we are not likely to learn much about the peculiarities of Anatole France's brain. It seems that his family, after having given their consent to the removal, were distressed at the thought of any publicity in the matter, and so put a seal upon it. However, something—highly interesting as far as it goes—has leaked out through the lips of Dr. Guillaume, hospital surgeon who had charge of the case. I translate from the report of a writer in Le Temps:

"He (Dr. Guillaume) insisted strongly upon the scientific interest which the examination of such a brain offers.

"'Have I studied it!' cried Dr. Guillaume. 'But I passed my entire night with it. I contemplated it; handled it; took notes of it'; but he cannot give any details, he explains, because the family oppose, though why, he does not know. He adds that he feels he can go no further than to say with energy, that the result is 'magnifique, mordious!' The finest brain that one could dream of! By the fulness, the number, the delicatesse of the circumvolutions, the frizzling as we say (la frizure comme nous disons), it is a unque specimen!" And the doctor rubs his hands.

As far as it goes, this enthusiastic outburst of Dr. Guillaume confirms expectation. Anatole France's writings were celebrated for their fineness of quality, for their smoothness of texture, for a certain well rounded perfection of expression.

The uncommon "delicatesse" of "frisure" of the convolutions, which cerebral science affirms are the typical features of brain structure distinguishing the human from the anthropoid, together with the fullness and number of the convolutions, accord well with the mental character of the owner of the brain.

But did the mind make the brain fine, as thought seems to cover the forehead with delicate wrinkles, or did the brain impart an original quality, of its own to the mind? As to that, Sir Roger de Coverley would still find that "there is much to be said on both sides."

ONCE-OVERS

EDUCATION WITHOUT AMBITION IS WASTED EFFORT.

As parents, you may be struggling to give your son or your daughter a good education.

At times you may wonder if it will be worth enough to that boy, or girl, to recompense you for the self-denial you are making in your own home.

It is a question with you whether or not it might not be as well for the child to start working after leaving high school, rather than go to college.

You know of college men and women who are in menial positions in comparison with certain others who have had far less education and who are holding higher positions with credit.

Merely a college education will not make a success of your boy or girl, if he or she is unwilling to work and to adapt himself or herself to the ideas gained.

But if your boy or girl possesses ambition and desires to benefit by the college course, the higher education will make a worthier son and daughter.

It is true that the time spent in college is practically wasted by some young men and young women, but the wastage would be greater and more serious perhaps if they should go into the world less fully equipped with greater knowledge which attendance at a higher seat of learning is bound to bring.
